Rescuers Hunt 7 Airmen

Parachute Over Rugged Area

BY GERRY TRAPT

Ogden, Utah — Rescue parties spread out over a vast area of snow-swept northeastern Utah today in search of seven lightly clad airmen who bailed out of a disabled C119 transport plane.

The plane's pilot, Capt. Harry O. Blount of Clearfield, Utah, was found early today, eight hours after he and his crew parachuted to the ground. The others of the crew are still missing.

The plane, with one of its engines failing, crashed 250 miles north of here in Idaho.

10-Mile Intervals

Blount said the men jumped out at 10-mile intervals between Ft. Bridger, Wyo., and Huntsville, Utah, just east of here.

He told Weber County Deputy Sheriff Gerald Waymunt, that the reason he had the men jump at intervals was because he was unfamiliar with the terrain below.

Waymunt said the missing men, trapped in an early-winter blizzard, could be "anywhere between here and Evanston, Wyo." Evanston is 50 miles east of here.

Blount said later, however, that the men had left the plane within a 5-minute period and he believed they would be found within a 10-mile radius of where he was found, about eight miles east of Huntsville.

Blount was the last to leave the plane.

Deputy Sheriff Blair Findlay said that the area is extremely rugged and heavily timbered. He said the snow was about 18 inches deep and that the wind was blowing strongly. Snow was still falling.

Search officials doubted that search planes could be launched until the storm abated. They sent out a call for snowmobiles to aid in the ground search.

Engine Fails

The plane radioed Hill Air Force base near Ogden that one engine failed at 12,000 feet, shortly after the aircraft flew over Fort Bridger, Wyo. The civil aeronautics administration said the pilot's last message was sent while the plane was over this area.

The "Flying Boxcar" transport crashed into a hill near Swan valley, Idaho, a town about 20 miles from the Wyoming border and nearly 250 miles north of here.

An air force spokesman speculated that the plane's automatic pilot was left on and the plane was headed northward into an area of 9,000 foot mountains, but the aircraft apparently kept enough altitude to clear the mountains while under mechanical control and skidded to a crash in the open country of southeastern Idaho. It did not burn.

Argentina Ready For Martial Law

Vice President Clings to Office Despite Mob Action

Buenos Aires — Vice President Alejandro Gomez held on to his office today despite an angry mob attack on his office and the government set machinery in motion to declare martial law.

Gomez appealed by telegram to President Arturo Frondizi, whom he is accused of trying to unseat, for police protection for himself and family last night after a crowd of about 100 young men and girls broke into his office shouting "resign, traitor!"

Gomez was in an inner office at the time making a recording for a radio broadcast, but his friends kept the attackers at bay in a brisk scuffle until the vice president could escape into another room.

Mob Storms Office The mob smashed into the outer office with clubs and stormed about for 30 minutes, wrecking furniture, breaking windows and destroying papers before some senators persuaded them to leave.

Gomez appealed to police for protection when the attack began but was told to seek help from the interior ministry which supervises police. Later police threw a guard around the Gomez home and announced extra police would be on duty at the senate today to prevent any more trouble.

The government meanwhile took additional precautions to defend itself. Military guards with machine guns were increased at government house and at strategic points.

State of Siege The war ministry announced it was drawing up orders to put the nation under martial law if the situation worsened. President Frondizi already has proclaimed a state of siege and rounded up hundreds of alleged Peronistas, communists and nationalists to cope with a threatened nationwide oil workers strike.

Many of those arrested were turned loose, but about 70 have been sent to a navy prison.

Pressure on Gomez to resign mounted in the wake of charges Wednesday by Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo that the vice president had reported to him there was a plot for a military coup, had proposed that Frondizi resign, and had suggested he had military support for formation of a coalition government.

President Frondizi, of the same intransigent radical party as Gomez last night issued a statement reaffirming Frondizi's version. Frondizi said that when he confronted Gomez with the story the vice president had confirmed it.

Milwaukee Man Faces Charge Of Tax Evasion

Milwaukee — Former acting Postmaster Edward J. Mesheski, 52, one-time chairman of the Milwaukee County Democratic party, was indicted Friday by a federal grand jury on an income tax charge involving $18,652.

A warrant was issued alleging that between 1952 and 1955 Mesheski made out the income tax returns of eight persons but never filed the report or paid the taxes and instead pocketed their payments. He did the income tax work as a sideline. He was appointed acting postmaster in 1952 and served one year.

Mesheski, now a deputy Milwaukee county clerk, said he was "shocked that the grand jury would think that I willfully violated any law of the federal government. . . I have nothing further to say at this time." Mesheski was Milwaukee county treasurer from 1955 to 1957.

The warrant was secured by assistant U. S. Attorney Francis L. McEligott who said Mesheski made partial restitution for the alleged evasions, but added, "that doesn't change the fact that he is accused of a felony."

Boat Swamps

Trio Rescued From Lake Butte des Morts

Oshkosh — Three Milwaukee duck hunters were rescued from Lake Butte des Morts shortly before 8 a.m. today. They were suffering from shock after clinging about 15 minutes to their swamped boat in the chilly waters.

They are William Kalwitz, 25, Ronald Wojcik, 20, and James Salinas, 25.

The three were taken from the water by Robert Murray, Jr., route 4, Oshkosh, who was hunting with his father, Robert A. Murray, Oshkosh, an advertising executive, in front of their home at Leonard's point.

They saw the three hunters clinging to their swamped boat about a quarter mile off shore. The Murphys hitched their 14-foot rowboat to a car and hauled it 500 feet across the lawn from the garage to the water's edge. Young Murray brought the three ashore at the Herbert Clark home nearby.

The heavy clothing of the hunters was water soaked. One man was about ready to sink when the Murray boat arrived. Sheriff's police said waves were high on the windswept lake. The hunters were taken in the Miller ambulance to Mercy hospital.

Says No Authority Found for Beck's Use of Union Funds

Tacoma, Wash. — Claude Watson, special agent for the internal revenue service, testified yesterday that he could find no teamster union documents authorizing former President Dave Beck to take union funds for his personal use.

A witness before the federal court jury hearing the $240,000 income tax case against the 64-year-old labor leader, Watson said he had spent five years investigating Beck's financial affairs and studying teamster records.

Defense Attorney William Dwyer, in his opening address to the jury, said Beck took $380,000 in union money over a period of years. The money, Dwyer said, was taken in a "rather peculiar and informal way."

The defense has maintained all the union funds were returned.

Thomson Accuses Nelson of Law Evasion in 1-Year Budget Plan

Madison — Republican Gov. Vernon Thomson Friday described Democratic Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson's plan to prepare a state budget for only one fiscal year instead of two as "planned disregard and evasion" of the law.

Thomson, defeated by Nelson in the recent election, also called his successor's proposal "a timid, faltering, piecemeal approach" and said it "portends the gravest problems of the moral standards and intent of this incoming administration."

One-Year Budget Plan Nelson announced Thursday he would prepare a budget for the 24-hour period ending at a single fiscal year and then 9 o'clock: High, 67, low, 42, have the legislature return in Temperature at 10:30 a.m., a special or recessed session 43. "It was shocking to learn of the planned disregard and evasion of the clear statutory mandate which requires state planning for budgetary purposes of government administration during a 2-year period. This announced planned violation of existing laws portends the gravest problems of the moral standards and intent of this incoming administration.

Must Uphold Laws "He complains of lack of time and staff to prepare a budget. But these obstacles were surmounted by every govern- or-elect for the past 40 years and by men who lacked the legislative experience avail- able to the governor-elect.

"This includes even Albert Nelson Schmedeman, who faced very critical problems at his inaug- election in 1933, and most of- ficially to constructive ac- tion."

Thomson also charged that the Nelson plan "will create confusion in administrative and legislative consideration of this long range needs of the state and destroy the effectiveness of the state government."

Thomson said Beck took $380,000 in union money over a period of years. The money, Dwyer said, was taken in a "rather peculiar and informal way."

The defense has maintained all the union funds were returned.

Elizabeth Taylor's Child Has Pneumonia

Hollywood — (P) — Sobbing, Elizabeth Taylor learned yesterday that her 15-month-old daughter has pneumonia.

The baby's condition is "serious but not necessarily critical," the UCLA Medical center reported.

The actress and singer Ed- die Fisher took Elizabeth Frances, her daughter by the late Mike Todd, to the hospi- tal Wednesday night. Doctors said then she had a respira- tory ailment.

Miss Taylor, wearing a hooded turquoise sweater and black Capri pants, spent 45 minutes yesterday in a ward where the baby is in an oxy- gen tent.

3 Vehicles Stopped by Red Troops

Berlin — The U.S. Army is expected soon to send another truck convoy west in a test of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's intentions concerning his demands for the west to quit Berlin.

Russian soldiers yesterday blocked a routine 3-truck army convoy seeking to cross communist East Germany to West Germany and held it for 84 hours. The army said the Rus- sians broke established pro- cedures by making unaccept- able demands to inspect the trucks.

Normally heavy civilian highway traffic was moving west today without hinder- ance. Rail and air traffic also were normal. The U.S., British and French military gar- risons in Berlin get most of their supplies by rail, making little supply use of the 110-mile autobahn through the Soviet zone.

Refuse to Leave Khrushchev demanded last Monday in Moscow that mili- tary forces be withdrawn from Berlin, which his puppet East German regime claims as its capital. The western allies say they are here by right of World War II conquest and will use force if necessary to re- main in anti-communist West Berlin.

Khrushchev said last night the Soviet Union had never declared that it would fight the west over Berlin.

"The Soviet government is preparing an appropriate docu- ment on the status of Ber- lin," Khrushchev said, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported. "We intend to make definite proposals to the coun- tries that took part in the war against Hitlerite Germany and fascist Italy," he added.

Khrushchev spoke at a Kremlin reception for Soviet military academy graduates. He did not elaborate on the proposals or say when they would be presented.

Harassment Move The convoy incident was the first harassment of western forces in Berlin since Khrush- chev opened his campaign. But the Soviet demand to in- spect U.S. army trucks cross- ing East Germany is an old issue. The allies claim the Russians are entitled only to examine trucks' manifest pa- pers.

The U.S. Army announced at midnight last night: "Three U.S. Army vehicles were held at the Russian checkpoint at Babelsberg (just outside Berlin) for 84 hours this afternoon while Russian army personnel de- manded compliance with in- spection contrary to estab- lished procedures."

"The vehicles were released and returned to Berlin by American military personnel after a representative of Maj. Gen. Barksdale Hamlett, U.S. Army commander in Berlin, visited Karlshorst (the red army headquarters in East Berlin) and asked that the U. S. vehicles be immediately re- leased."

A spokesman said Ham- lett's representative protested the Russian refusal to let the trucks through. American sol- diers have standing orders not to permit inspection.

There has been speculation here that the Russians might block allied communications to the west or turn control points over to the East Ger- mans. The allies have refus- ed to deal with the commu- nist East German regime on the ground it is not a repre- sentative government.

Nelson Certain to Try For Fish, Game Policy Changes

Appointment of 2 Commissioners In Place of Leonard Seyberth and A. W. Schorger Will Come Up First

BY JOHN WYNGAARD.
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — Serious attempts to alter the basic organization and some of the policies of the Wisconsin conservation department are in the offing, State Sen. Gaylord Nelson, of Madison, keyed his successful campaign for the governorship in part to some serious criticisms of the method in which the conservation department is run and some of its policies.

For the first time in many years, issues involving the state conservation department and its program figured in the election campaigns of the state this year. How will the defeat of Gov. Vernon W. Thomson and the election of Gaylord Nelson to the governorship affect the state conservation program? In the accompanying dispatch, this newspaper's long time state capital writer answers the question.

Although it is not certain that he can achieve the changes he wants, he is sure to make a strong try.

What to Watch

These are the things to watch for:

1. The appointment of two new commissioners, soon after the inauguration of the new governor, to replace Leonard J. Seyberth of Eau Claire and A. W. Schorger of Madison, both named by Republican administrations. Seyberth is currently the chairman of the 6-member commission.

2. A proposal by the governor — elect to abolish the commission as it is now formed, and to substitute a new form of policy-making, probably through the creation of a commission of fulltime members.
3. A demand for a more definitive waters conservation policy, and particularly an aggressive, state-directed program of acquiring public access parcels on recreational lakes and streams to supplement laws which now put that function largely into the hands of local governments and notably counties and towns.

Reorganization Plan

Nelson is working out a general state government reorganization program that will probably involve many other agencies. The law contemplates the appointment of expiring commissioners relatively early in the year, in February. He may make nominations to the Seyberth and Schorger seats before he presents his reorganization program.

The governor — elect as a candidate did not specify the alternative form of commission top command, although he said he wanted "career men" in the policy-making posts.

There is some doubt, moreover, that he could achieve a radical reorganization. Some of the most influential of the private conservationists and their organizations back the present commission method that was devised especially for this department 30 years ago. If there is any evidence of public resistance to radical change, it is unlikely that the state senate, which has a Republican majority surviving the election, will agree to the passage of reorganization bills. It may be easier for Nelson to win approval for new nominees to the commission than to get the senate's consent for the abolition of the commission. None of the largest conservation organizations had asked for the abolition of the commission when the candidate during his campaign proposed such action.

Water Policy

Nelson believes the commission's water policy has not been clearly enough defined, and not aggressive enough on such matters as guaranteeing public use of public waters through public action to provide access.

The complaint was also one of his principal themes during his service in the legislature. A year ago he unsuccessfully sponsored an appropriation to give the department authority to buy access points.

The inauguration of Nelson puts none of the principal department administrators in direct peril. All of them except Conservation Director Lester P. Voigt have tenure under the civil service laws. Voigt holds office at the pleasure of the commission director, and there is a strong probability that he would be re-elected in an administrative position even if the new governor succeeds in throwing out the present commission.

Future Bright for Law Enforcement, Chief Warden Says

Morale High, Cooperation With Courts Better, Hadland Asserts

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Chief Warden, George Hadland, of the state conservation department believes his enforcement division is better manned than ever before in its history.

Hadland has a perspective of 23 years of service from which to judge.

"We're in great shape," he said here enthusiastically to a reporter.

"Morale was never higher in the force, and cooperation was never greater from the local courts and enforcement officers," he went on.

Could Use More

Hadland now commands about 130 supervising officers and wardens. "We could use one or two more," he said, "but we are not hurting."

Moreover, about half of our men are young, with less than five years of service. We have a splendid combination of youth and energy, and maturity and experience in this staff."

Last year this state recorded slightly more than 5,000 conservation law violations. This year the total may be greater. There was a record of 800 during October. The totals are growing.

Special Teams

But a part of the cause is more effective patrolling in the field, resulting from the greater numbers of wardens.

Another factor is the tendency of non-resident fishermen to blink at some of the state laws including license requirements. About a quarter of the violations each year are scored against visitors from other states, and this state has more of them for fishing purposes than any other state of the union.

The enforcement division has developed teams of specialists for special purposes. It now has a special training unit, and another special investigation unit. It has a working arrangement with the state crime laboratory for scientific investigation jobs.

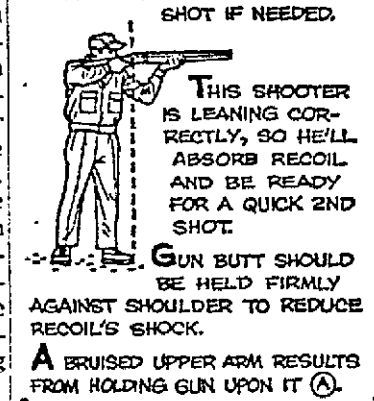

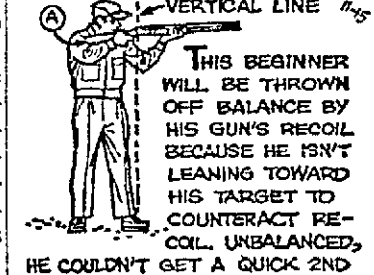

"If we find blood in the trunk of your car, we are now in a position to determine whether it came from a duck or a sturgeon, or whatever, and when," he said.

Bear Damage in Waupaca County

Bear are moving into east central Wisconsin and the conservation department has just processed the first bear damage claim from that area in recent years. The claim involved the loss of sheep on the LaVerne Shauger farm in Waupaca county. There have been numerous complaints as to bear in northern Waupaca county and one group of six bear has been reported.

Take a Close Look at Justices of the Peace

The justice of the peace has become an obstacle in the path of those in Wisconsin who would improve the state's system of justice. During the 1957 session of the legislature a plan to reorganize Wisconsin's courts failed when the state's justices of peace lobbied the legislature into keeping the J. P. system as a part of the reorganization plan.

With the justices of the peace back in the system the circuit court judges balked at the plan and it failed. Now the judicial council is attempting to work out a plan which will permit the justices of the peace to remain as they are, a constitutional fixture, but to strip them of most of their duties by merely changing the statutes. The judicial council will be offering its new plan to the legislature during the session which opens in January.

The people of Illinois voted Nov. 4 on a proposal to unify and reform the judicial system of that state. The plan appears to have been defeated but the outcome will not be finally determined until after the official vote canvass late this month or early in December. The campaign in Illinois centered around a plan which would have abolished the justices of the peace and the fee system which supports them. The justices would have been replaced by magistrates appointed by and responsible to the circuit courts.

The justices of the peace in Illinois have a well-financed organization. An article entitled "The 'J. P.' Should He Be Abolished?" by Joe Alex Morris appeared in the Saturday Evening Post recently. Morris took many examples from Illinois to show that a justice of the peace may be a person who:

Has no training in the law. Receives no salary but collects fees (sometimes as much as $2,000 per month) from those he finds guilty. Can hold court anywhere, even in a car along the highway. Can collect as much as 33 per cent on debt collection cases settled out of court. Has power to impose fines up to $500 and jail sentences up to a year. If he is unscrupulous can "gouge" defendants for court costs in a way that would shame a loan shark."

It was not difficult for Morris to find justices of the peace in Illinois who were making $20,000 a year in fees. Such justices usually are working cooperatively with the police and the governing bodies of their communities. Frequently they "kickback" one dollar per case to the arresting officer and thus help to pay the salaries of the police department. In one small city it was found that the cost of the police department was $15,000 per year while the fines collected ran to about $16,000. Sometimes a justice will "kickback" $2 in order to get a better flow of traffic cases and of course the poor motorist pays the extra charge in increased court costs.

The whole business is a black mark against the administration of justice and ought to be abolished. However, the "J. P.s" are not only well organized but they also have powerful support from the police departments and the communities they serve. The case with which Wisconsin's justices were able to swing the legislature indicates that they have unusual support also and the source of it may be the same as in Illinois.

It is worth looking into, and if it is true it is one more good reason for wiping out justices of the peace or putting them under control. The Wisconsin Justices of the Peace Association recently submitted a plan to broaden the powers of the state's 1,005 justices. Their proposal was referred to a subcommittee for study. The subcommittee should go into the source of the justices' lobbying powers and also look into the claim that the justice court is "the poor man's court." It may develop that it is merely a poor court and we can do without it.

Diamonds and Idols' Eyes

Diamonds, if they are more than mid-dling in size, value and antiquity, have an affinity for Hindu idols. Gentlemen adventurers of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries, it seems, made careers of stealing them. The wrath of the heathen gods, who were enamored of the baubles, pursued them and every subsequent possessor forever after.

All sorts of untoward things happened through the ages to anyone who harbored the stolen gem, and that went for his family, too. French royalty and nobility had their heads cut off, and lesser people suffered misfortune and/or death.

The Smithsonian Institution has a grand opportunity to put an end to the hex. All it has to do is to send the Hope diamond back to India, on condition that it be restored to the dispossessed vengeful idol.

Mr. England and Mr. France

During the war Winston Churchill complained wryly that of all the crosses he had to bear the cross of Lorraine sometimes seemed the greatest. He meant Gen. Charles de Gaulle, a man of frosty dignity in the bitter days who kept the respect of Churchill and President Roosevelt, but stretched the patience of both.

Last week Sir Winston received the Cross of Liberation and a kiss on both cheeks from Premier De Gaulle. It must have seemed fitting to Sir Winston that this plain bronze, green-ribboned cross embodied the Cross of Lorraine, De Gaulle's symbol.

A Warning to Hunters

Rabbit fever or tularemia is only one of 83 diseases which may be transmitted to man from animals. The American Medical association has chosen this time of year to issue its warning on rabbit fever because many youthful and inexperienced hunters may be handling or cleaning some of the smaller fur-bearing animals at this time. Tularemia, common in rabbits, field mice, opossums, squirrels, coyotes, skunks and many other small wild animals, is fatal to the animals and may be very distressing to a human who has contracted it.

The medical association warns all hunters against taking or handling animals that appear sluggish or ill. All such game should be handled with care, for this disease may be contracted from infected animals through an abrasion in the skin or even through apparently unbroken skin. Those who must handle them are advised to use gloves, to wash the blood from the skin with plenty of soap and water and follow this by a disinfectant. If the disease is contracted the symptoms include headache, chills, fever, general weakness, backache, joint ache, prostration. Antibiotics can cure the disease so the wisest thing to do for anyone who thinks he may have the disease is to call the doctor and go to bed until he comes to administer an antibiotic.

Urge 'Cease Fire' Before Warfare

As reported in the New York Times from Nyborg, Denmark, and in the release of the World Council of Churches, a 14-member commission of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches resolved as follows: "Atomic weapons have come to stay . . . the commission has urged that Christians should openly declare that the all-out use of these weapons should never be resorted to, oppose all policies which give evidence of leading to all-out war and urge a 'cease fire' if an all-out war should occur, if necessary on the enemy's terms."

Shame! The men of this committee open the door to the enemy. They invite terror and treason. They forget Patrick Henry. And even more tragic, they repudiate the clear teachings of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, who died rather than surrender.

If ever any responsible church body takes the position recommended by the men of this committee, then every Christian agency and every Christian should repudiate the action, depart from the body.

Pigs Had Town Going in Rings

Vernon, Conn. — Wandering pigs in town must have jangled 147 years ago.

A motion passed at a town meeting on Dec. 2, 1811, was:

"The voters decided that swine be allowed to go at large on the highways and commons" provided they had not one but two rings in their noses.

The Public Pulse

Republican 1958 Election Story Is Involved

Old Guard Appears to Be Passing

BY ELMO ROPER AND ASSOCIATES

The 1958 elections demonstrated once and for all that even a personally popular president has little influence on a contrary mind of the electorate. A abandoning his usual aloofness and moderation, President Eisenhower lent his energies to an aggressive and partisan campaign against the Democrats, to which the electorate responded with a Democratic landslide on Nov. 4. Yet the president himself still has the support and approval of a majority of the public, according to a nationwide pre-election survey:

On the whole, do you approve or disapprove of Eisenhower's record as president?

Approve . . . . . 59
Disapprove . . . . . 29
Express no opinion . . . 12
(It should be added that answers to specific questions about Eisenhower's record indicate that in answering this general question, people may have been reacting more to "Eisenhower-the-man" than to his record.)

Liberal Dream

The elections also demonstrate the failure of "Modern Republicanism" to gain reality in the voters' minds and imaginations. The president, elected twice on the ticket of the minority party, has spoken more than once of his desire to build a new image of the Republican party as a moderate but forward-looking political instrument. This has been a dream of liberal Republicans for a long time, but it has been a dream difficult to realize — partly because the party also bore the label of Bricker, Jenner, and Malone.

This year's elections may have been the first step in a two-step rehabilitation of the party. The first step is the virtual disappearance of the Republican Old Guard from the national political scene — by retirement or defeat. Sens. Malone, Jenner, Bricker, Watkins, and Knowland are now gone; only such lone holdouts as Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, and Barry Goldwater of Arizona, remain to carry on the party's ultra-conservative tradition.

Rockefeller

The second step may well be started with the victory of Nelson Rockefeller, who bucked the national Democratic tide to win the governorship of New York State by a margin of half a million votes. While he was unquestionably helped by differences within the Democratic party and resentment of the arbitrary use of power by New York's Tammany chief, Carmine de Sapio, he also demonstrated without question the readiness of voters to rally around a personable — and liberal — candidate from the Republican party. Pennsylvania voters showed this same receptivity in electing a Republican liberal, Hugh Scott, to the senate. The names Nixon, Rockefeller, Javits, Clifford Case and John Sherman Cooper may seem to the public much more consistent with the phrase "Modern Republicanism" than the names associated in past years with the GOP.

This year's Democratic vote was not, after all, a blind vote for any and every man the Democrats chose to represent their party. In some states strong local issues worked effectively against the Democrats, as in Rhode Island where voter resentment against "unfair play" during the 1956 election count on the part of the Democratic governor played an important part in the election of a Republican gov-

Nelson A. Rockefeller, governor-elect of New York, and as a result considered a likely Republican presidential candidate in 1960, and his wife relax on the porch of their home atop a hill overlooking their ranch in Venezuela. Rockefeller, incidentally, is wearing an elephant-covered sport shirt.

Proposed Teen Bar in Neenah Protested by Former Alderman

Editor, Post-Crescent:

It was not only regrettable, but deplorable to learn that the Mayor Bell administration has deemed it desirable to condone the establishment of a Teen Age Bar in Neenah. If this were not their thinking; surely the nine aldermen present at the last official council meeting (Alderman Dinius being out of town) would not have issued a beer license to one of their own councilmen, to operate a beer bar, and Mayor Bell would have used his much talked of "veto" error this time, and in Oregon where Hatfield was elected governor with an assist from Wayne Morse's last minute campaign accusations.

Nixon Jolted

Predictions already are being made that the Democrats will follow up their 1958 victory by electing a Democratic president in 1960. Whether this will happen depends in some part on the kind of Republican leadership that develops in the next two years. Vice President Nixon, who up to now has seemed to be assured of assuming party power when President Eisenhower relinquishes it, is now in a more vulnerable position. Nixon who not only reverted to his earlier, more hard-hitting campaign approach but persuaded the president to join him in doing so, saw that approach fail and at the same time saw, in Nelson Rockefeller's victory, the emergence of the first real challenge to his bid for the 1960 presidential nomination. One thing seems certain: To power to forestall issuance of such a license.

Since about 1951 Neenah has been free of this type of potential menace. Why bring it back?

We have but to look to one of our neighboring cities and wonder whether perhaps the gruesome murder of a teenage girl might not have been committed had beer bars not been in existence. According to the press two such establishments had been frequented by the principals in the slaying on the night of the crime.

What to do about our problem? Let us hope, that at least one of the aldermen who voted favorably for the issuance of the license will have the courage to ask that the Neenah council reconsider its action. If that does not transpire perhaps Mayor Bell will take whatever action is within his sphere of authority to do something about it.

have a chance at winning the presidency, the 1960 Republican candidate must be a liberal candidate.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower will enter his last two years of office with the continuing approval of the electorate. But this approval will be of little help to him when he faces a strongly Democratic congress in January, with memories of his tingling campaign language still fresh in many minds.

A column to come will discuss what the public thinks of the way President Eisenhower has handled the recession, foreign affairs, and the school integration issue, and what they think of the men around him.

Reynolds Shows How To Get Votes

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Atty. Gen. Elect John W. Reynolds of Green Bay has taught the politicians of Wisconsin something of the arts of publicity and the virtues of the campaign gimmick.

No minor office aspirant on either ticket during the recent campaign was quite as lucky in getting publicity space for himself, and nobody hit the same campaign theme more tediously than did he.

Reynolds had the problem that didn't face some of his running mates when the campaign started. He had a primary opponent who was thought to be formidable. He needed a strong publicity peg to overcome the rival's supposed lead. He hit upon the sales tax, taking his cue from William Proxmire's tireless theme of four earlier campaigns.

The device worked. There is no other way to explain the fact that Reynolds won by a handsome 80,000 votes, while such a considerably better known party functionary as Phil Lee Nash just squeaked through to the governorship. The situation was faintly annoying to some Democrats, but they are likely to keep their grievances to themselves in the hot and pleasurable flush of their victory.

Reynolds is a personable young man of considerable ambition. If he has the good sense that his friends attribute to him, he will concentrate upon the important job that the voters have given him. Few men of his age have attained the attorney generalship, one of the biggest responsibilities to which a lawyer can aspire.

Lt. Gov. Knowles Expresses Some Strange Ideas

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Lt. Gov. Knowles expressed some strange, not to say dangerous ideas about education, according to your report of his speech to the American Legion on Nov. 11.

The greatest task of the teacher is to get his students to think for themselves and to become, as far as possible, immune to propaganda. We believe the future of America depends on their ability to discover the truth.

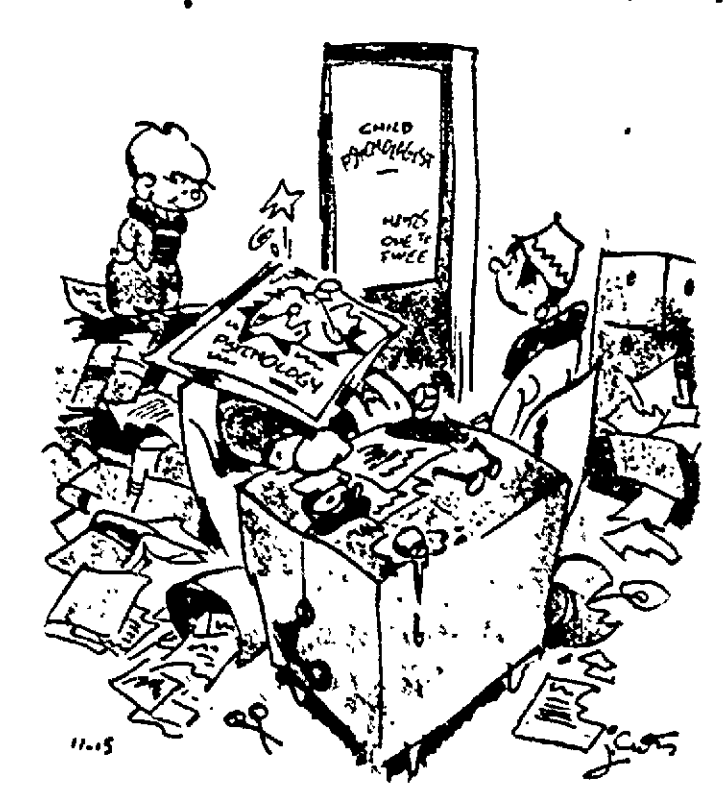

Lt. Gov. Knowles says that "young people should be taught and sold" their patriotism, and that teachers (among others) are in positions which offer "unlimited opportunities to sell and promote the American way of life."

is the product Mr. Knowles has in mind so shoddy that it cannot stand disinterested study? At least the schools should be allowed to be refuges from interested advertising. When teachers become salesmen, their students will be well advised to take the claims of the product at a discount.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

John Ruskin, the Great 19th Century art critic, believed that the soul was an integral element of true art. "A blacksmith," he wrote, "may put soul into the making of a horseshoe, and an architect may put none into the building of a church. Only exactly in proportion as the soul is thrown into it, the art becomes fine."

One of the masters of English prose, Ruskin practiced what he preached. As a critic, he praised Gothic architecture as the product of a time of faith and virtue, denounced Renaissance architecture as soulless, the product of an age of unfaithfulness and moral decay.

A noted philanthropist, social reformer, and intellectual, Ruskin said the Bible, which his family read together each day, was an essential part of his education.

Three Church Bodies to Hold Merger Rally

200 From Area Expected to Attend Services at Zion

Zion Lutheran church will be host Sunday afternoon to representatives of congregations involved in a merger affecting three Lutheran church bodies.

About 200 are expected to hear Dr. August Engelbrecht, of Wartburg seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, and Dr. Wendell Frerichs, of Luther seminary, St. Paul, Minn. Theme of the meeting will be "This We Believe."

When the three bodies — the American Lutheran church, the Evangelical Lutheran church and the United Our Saviour and South New Evangelical Lutheran church — complete their merger in 1960, the new church assembly will have about 2,000,000 members, with headquarters in Minneapolis.

Churches Affected

Churches in the Fox Cities area affected by the merger are Grace, First English and Zion, all in Appleton; Our eran church, marked for stop-go lights at College avenue and Drew street and electrical department salaries $2,400, representing incomes the department had from other departments.

A total of $335.21 for the unforeseen installation of a septic tank at the house which the city rents on the industrial park site will be defrayed by the contingent fund.

If all actions are approved, the $11,921 contingent fund would be reduced to $1,386. More overages, including the paving account, are not settled.

City Clerk Broehm was instructed to keep after the defunct Appleton Housing Authority for $10,000 of the about $14,000 it is holding. It cannot be disbanded under present state statute, the city has been told, but it can turn over almost all of the money it is holding.

Annual Pre-Christmas Oratorio

'The Messiah' to be Given Dec. 7

Two Lawrence trained singers will be soloists in the 42nd annual performance of Handel's oratorio "The Messiah" which will be given at 7:30 p. m. December 7 in Memorial chapel.

Named by LaVahn Maesch for principal roles are Grace Trestor, Sheboygan, soprano, who graduated in 1956; Carroll Gonzo, Manitowoc, tenor, presently a senior in the conservatory of music; and two Chicago professionals Evelyn Reynolds, contralto; and Richard Schreiber, baritone.

Maesch, who will direct the 235 voice Lawrence choral society in the traditional pre-Christmas performance, has also announced the instrumentalists who will assist. Daniel Smith, instructor in organ at the conservatory, will be at the console of the four-manual Kimball throughout the evening. Others will be Carole Wang Schroeder, harpsichord; Marion Wolfe Ming, violin; Kenneth Byler, violin; all of the faculty; Patricia Miller, Evanston, Ill.; flute; Wayne Wirth, Sheboygan, and William Melin, Crystal Lake, Ill., trumpets; Ronald Sindelar, Manitowoc, contra bass; and Edward Domeland, Des Plaines, Ill., percussion.

Messiah Soloist As Senior

Miss Trestor was a frequent soloist with the Lawrence college choir while an undergraduate, and sang the soprano role in "The Messiah" during her senior year. She has studied at the Juilliard school of music in New York, and this season is a graduate student at Indiana University. Recently she has done summer stock in Indianapolis and performed the role of Mimi in Indiana University's "La Boheme." She was selected by Conductor Milton Weber to perform Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana" with the Waukesha Symphony orchestra and the Milwaukee A Cappella Chorists. At Lawrence Miss Trestor studied voice with Ruth Orr and Isabelle McClung.

Student on Campus

Carroll Gonzo has become experienced as a soloist with Lawrence choral groups, the Manitowoc

Weston chorus, the Clintonville civic chorus with which he performed Stainer's "Crucifixion," the Marion high school and community chorus, where he sang both the Dubois and the Schutz "Seven Last Words of Christ," and the Stevens Point college chorus in Handel's "Messiah." He has studied with Isabelle McClung and Inge Weiss at the Lawrence conservatory, and with Lola Fletcher in Chicago.

In the latter city he was a member of the Chicago Park District Opera Guild and did guest spots on WGN-TV, as well as Milwaukee and Green Bay stations. This past summer he sang operatic repertoire for ten weeks at a resort in northern Wisconsin. He has been a member of the choirs of the First Congregational and First Methodist churches in Appleton.

Repeat Performer

Evelyn Reynolds who was heard by Appleton "Messiah" audiences in 1956, has had wide variety of oratorio experience in the mid-west. She has sung with such ensembles as the Apollo and

Swedish Choral clubs of Chicago; college groups at the University of Chicago, Cornell, Denison, Milton, Culver - Stockton, Augustana, Kalamazoo, and symphony orchestras in Davenport, Ia.; Chicago's Grant Park; and Independence, Mo. Miss Reynolds has also appeared with the Chicago Lyric opera in performances of "Andrea Chenier," "Salome," and "Die Walkure."

Richard Schreiber is a veteran of radio, concert and opera performances. He has sung with the Chicago City, the Milwaukee and the American Opera companies. For two years he appeared on the WCFL Treasury of Music program, and has been guest soloist on the WGN Theater of the Air. He has done such oratorios as the "Messiah," "The Elijah," "Judas Maccabaeus," the Verdi and Brahms "Requiem," with a long list of Chicago organizations and college groups in this area.

Tickets for the oratorio go on sale at Bellings on Monday.

Craftsmen Exhibit Shown at Art Center

Hangings colorful enough to be in an Arabian market place are decorating the walls of the Lawrence college Worcester art center during the exhibit by the Wisconsin Designer Craftsmen. Included in this exhibit, which will be on display the rest of the month, are textiles, ceramics, stoneware, and hand-crafted silver jewelry.

The majority of the artists are from the Milwaukee area, and several are teachers in Milwaukee schools and colleges. Their work ranges from silk screening on bur-lap, barkcloth, and wool, to drapery fabrics, to scotch tweeds, to woven room dividers. Original textures and designs make the display distinctive.

Jane Beckman, president of the designers' group, "the oldest organization of creative craftsmen in the United States," will be on the campus Sunday at 3 p.m. to demonstrate metal jewelry making. Her lecture, sponsored by the Lawrence Art association, will be followed by refreshments in the lounge.

Painting of the Manitowoc group, four artists from that area, still are being featured during November. Displays scheduled by the art department for next month include an exhibit by the Wisconsin Water Color society and another on "Contemporary Posters." All exhibits are open to the public.

Let's Face Facts

Squeezing Into Size 10 Big, Bulging Boomerang

Los Angeles — One of the troubles with the American woman is that she never wants to admit her true size, says an astute California designer, Edith Martin.

"A size 20 woman almost always tries to get into a size 16 dress," observes this authority. "The result is that she bulges above and below the belt, strains the seams and generally manages to look much bigger than if she wore a dress big enough to fit her."

In recognition of this universal problem, Miss Martin has been designing for some time a collection of "half-size" dresses, planned specifically for the woman who prefers her chocolate sodas to a streamlined figure, but who still wants to dress in youthful clothes. Her showing was among the final ones of a crowded week of resort and spring previews staged for the nation's fashion press by the California Fashion Creators.

Her designs included most of the current trends in junior and misses' sizes, scaled on a slightly more ample scale, with adroit placement of seams, belts and drapery to conceal waistline and hip-line bulges.

Scorn Paris Extreme

Others in closing lineup of designers included: Addie Masters, showing a wearable, feminine group of clothes for holiday, resort and spring wear; Pat Fremo, who put the accent on individuality — or every woman for herself; Jeanette Alexander, with a budget-priced collection of ladylike clothes; Elaine Terry and Marjorie Montgomery, both versed in the California theory of dress — simplicity, color and no distortion of the feminine figure. Said all: "Thank goodness the chemise, the trapeze and all those strange styles are dead."

Lord's Message to be Taken to Mountains of South Vietnam

Pasadena, Calif. — A slim, blue-eyed New England girl plans to ride muleback into mountainous South Vietnam and find some of the tribes that have no written language.

There, a few miles from the communist ist north, she'll spend 15 years making a phonetic translation of the New Testament and helping the natives establish a church.

"We feel that since the Lord seems to be leading us into it, he'll take care of us," says brunette Jean Donaldson, 26.

Bible Group Sponsors

She and a sull unselected girl companion will be sponsored by Wycliffe Bible Translators. This interdenominational group, with headquarters in nearby Glendale and 300 field workers around the world, has translated the New Testament into nearly 150 tribal languages. It aims at hundreds more.

In high school at Exeter, N. H., where she is still a member of the First Baptist church, Jean began thinking about missionary work.

In 1950-51 she was a staff sergeant in photography at Shaw air force base, S.C. She prayed about her decision while earning a B.A. at Westmont college, Santa Barbara, Calif.

In Good Taste

White Lie Advised in This Case

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how I can politely refuse to lend things to neighbors of ours who are constantly borrowing one thing or another? I can see people being forced to borrow something occasionally, but these neighbors do it all the time and frankly, I am getting fed up with it. I would like your advice as to what I can do about this without causing unpleasantness.

Answer: I know of no satisfactory way of solving the problem of the neighbor who is constantly borrowing something. Try to discourage her by telling her that you are about to use yourself whatever it is she wishes to borrow, or if it is something like an egg, be sorry that you have had to use the last one for your husband's breakfast.

Handwriting Best

Dear Mrs. Post: A short while ago a friend's husband died in a distant city. I wrote her a letter of sympathy. Since my handwriting is very poor I typed the letter. I thought this was perfectly proper in the present day when the typewriter is used so generally. However, I have been criticized for this. Was it a social error?

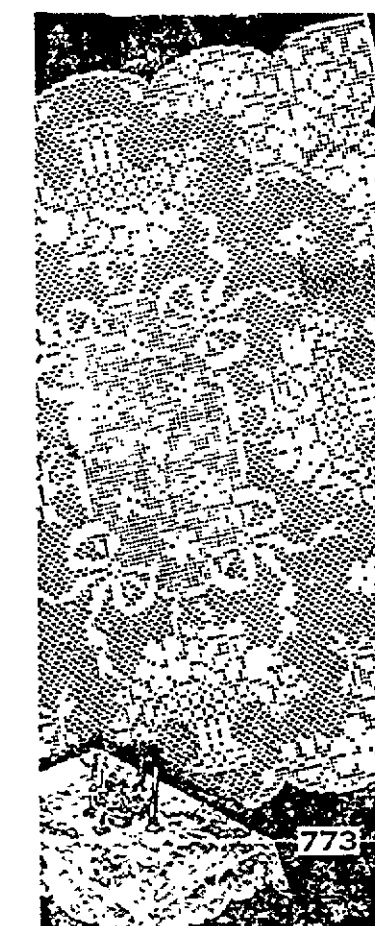

Answer: A letter of sympathy can be very short and it would have been better if you had taken pains and tried to write a few words clearly in your own handwriting. If, on the other hand, you have always typed your letters to this friend, you were not wrong in typing this one too.

Advices Waiting

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are planning to adopt a baby. We expect to get the baby in about 10 days. However, it will not be legally ours for about six months. Should we send out announcements when the baby comes to stay with us, or should we wait until it is legally ours before sending announcements?

Answer: If I were you I would wait.

Your Problems

Neighbor Child Who Stays at Mealtime Should be Sent Home

BY ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: What is a tactful way of sending a neighbor child home when it's mealtime?

We have five children of our own, all under 10 years of age. This is quite a crowd without extras.

The child who is causing the prob. Ann Landers lem is the next-door girl who is 6 years old but wears a size 10 dress, not because of height, but width.

My husband makes a small salary and often we have to buy skim milk because we can't afford the richer kind. This neighbor girl can drink a whole quart by herself. I hate to be stingy, but shouldn't this child's mother insist that she come home at dinner time instead of permitting her to stand around until we feed her? Please advise me. Maybe I am completely wrong in my views.

Skimping Mother

Of course this child's mother should insist that she come home at mealtime. Since she doesn't however, you must take the initiative.

Simply usher the little girl to the door about 10 minutes before your family sits down to eat. Tell her that Mother will surely worry about her if she doesn't go home. Occasionally invite her to stay for dinner so she will not feel unwanted in your home. It will also serve as a good example for your children to see you inviting others to share what you have, although it may not be a great deal.

Dear Ann: Why are some people so mean to waitresses? I've been in this line of work for 15 years and I can't figure out why certain guys who wouldn't think of opening their mouths at home, all of a sudden become big men in a hash-joint. They give orders and get downright abusive.

The man who lives next door is a little pipsqueak whose wife would crush him like a grape if he ever said boo to her. When he comes into the cafe he orders us girls around like he was royalty.

What goes on? — EMMA

You've got all the facts, Emma, but you just didn't add 'em up. Men who are mean to waitresses are pushed around at home or at work, so when they get to restaurants they push others around. It's as simple as that.

DEAR ANN: I'm 29, the mother of 3 children. For 12 years my husband was considerate and affectionate. About a year ago we started to have arguments over nothing at all. One day, in the heat of temper he said "I want a divorce. I met someone I love and want to marry her." I felt as if I'd been stabbed.

I've said no to a divorce hoping he would tire of his friend but so far he's going strong. It kills me to see him dress for his "date" every night. He says he knows I'm getting a raw deal and he wants out.

Am I being a doormat by standing quietly in the background and praying that he'll wake up? Our children have no idea of what's going on. Would it be better if he left? What would I tell the kids? They are 10, 6 and 4. — Z.Z.Z.

Don't give him a divorce, but by all means tell him to get out. No wife should put herself through the tortures of watching her husband get spruced up every night for another woman.

Tell the children Daddy is living elsewhere for awhile, but don't go into detail. You don't tell 10, 6 and 4-year-olds that their father has a girl friend. The heel doesn't deserve protection, but your children do. And get off your knees. Time could be your best ally. In the meanwhile, sit tight and give him every chance to regain consciousness.

Slipper Gloxinia

Indoor Gardening

Gloxinia Favorite Plant, Many Varieties Available

By Katherine B. Walker

Each year new gloxinia hybrids appear, vying with each other in size, color and ruffling. A new fall catalog describes one as being "fully double," which to me is like, evolving a double pansy—I'd rather have mine single, thank you!

But whether you like them single or double, ruffled or plain, trumpet or slipper flowered, gloxinias are wonderful house plants, and surprisingly easy to grow. Dormant bulbs (tubers, really) travel well through the mails and would be nice Christmas gifts for flower-minded friends.

The name Gloxinia has been accepted by the general public to mean the plant with upright, trumpet-like flowers, while the plant with slipper-type flowers is called Slipper Gloxinia or Sinningia. Personally, I prefer the slipper type to its more spectacular relatives and I'm happy with the plain Sinningia speciosa instead of the improved hybrids of this which produce more flowers. It isn't that I don't like blossoms in abundance; it's just that these are enjoyed individually.

When little pink sprouts appear on dormant tubers, pot them in very rich, easily drained soil with the top of the tuber above the soil. Water well, then water more sparingly until growth is active, and from then on keep the soil constantly moist.

Give gloxinias a little more sun than you give African violets, and turn the pots to promote symmetrical growth. Feed regularly with any good, balanced plant food.

When the plant has finished flowering, it is ready to be dried off and stored in a warm place until it again sends out its little pink sprouts. Be sure the tuber doesn't dry out during this storage period; I usually unpot mine and place it in a jar half full of peatmoss, unscrewing the lid every couple of weeks to check on the tuber and be sure it isn't too damp or too dry.

Many people, preferring to leave their plants in the pots, simply sprinkle the soil lightly with water often enough to keep it from drying out completely.

Questions and Answers

How can I propagate a gloxinia?

Select a mature leaf, cut it from the plant with an inch of stem, and insert it in water (or in any damp rooting medium) to cover the stem. Roots will soon form, and then the leaf should be potted up. It will usually form a nice little tuber before the parent leaf dies. Gloxinias may also be increased by rooting part of the main stem, after flowering has finished. They also may be grown from seed.

Do plants do better in clay pots than in plastic ones?

Usually it is the other way around, since plants do not dry out as fast in plastic pots. If plants are given the proper amount of water, neither too much nor too little for their requirements, they can be grown in any type of container.

Smart Woman Knows Car Needs Preparation for Cold, Harsh Winter Days

BY MARY JENSEN

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The question, "Why can't a woman be more like a man?" is pointed up in a rollicking song offered by the male lead in "My Fair Lady," one of Broadway's favorite musicals. It is doubtful the author had in mind the problem of winter weather which arises from car problems which arise when an unknowing wife neglects having the family car, or her own, winterized. But it seems that most women just aren't up-to-date when it comes to cars.

But the winterizing process is not difficult to understand and does eliminate those angry moments when, on the first day of Jack Frost's frigid reign, the car sputters, coughs, shivers and refuses to run. Actually the mechanical wonder isn't just being ornery. It knows it has been abused and wants the necessary attention to carry it through a harsh winter.

A motor tune-up to insure starting in cold weather includes a complete check of the cooling system (radiator), spark plugs are tested and replaced if faulty, as are distributor points.

Complete Inspection

In preparation for winter, your car undergoes a complete inspection. The carburetor, ignition, automatic choke, pumps, rings, valves, and head gaskets are checked. The oil filter is checked and oil is changed to a lighter oil. Little things aren't overlooked. Windshield wipers are tested.

tires are checked, along with the battery (an important part of the winterizing operation). generator and starter. Headlights and directionals also are inspected.

One of the most vital aspects of the process which readies the car for approaching cold weather is addition of anti-freeze to the radiator. As its name implies, anti-freeze will not freeze and contains a rust inhibitor. Other chemical additives may be placed in the water tank which will vaporize water from the gas.

Water would freeze during the winter, thus expanding and cracking the radiator.

Most men would agree they like women the way they are, save for a few improvements when it comes to things like cars. What a pleasant surprise it will be for the husband whose wife goes ahead and gets the car winterized and then, most surprising of all, knows what has been done. She also knows what to expect from her car when the job has been completed.

Bruce Prepares to Blast

BY JEANNETTE GRIFFITH
Sometimes parents become so involved with a child's problem that there seems to be no solution and it takes an outsider to put things straight. It was like that for John and me in the matter of Bruce and his rocket.

When he first started to design it we were interested, a trifle amused and perhaps a little proud. In this scientific era it is pleasant to have a child so in tune with the times. What I wasn't prepared for was the successful completion of the rocket and a date announced for its firing, with even a newspaper reporter scheduled to attend the event.

John and I were in Bruce's workshop looking at the sleek, menacing, three-foot missile. "It's dangerous, isn't it?" I feared to even touch the thing. "It could be," John said. He looked worried.

"Then," I declared, "even though it's a terrible thing to do to Bruce, we ought to forbid him to fire it." "We're too late," John said. "If we were to stop him at all, it ought to have been at the beginning. I blame myself. At this point it would be like taking a child to the beach and then jerking him away before he even touched the water."

After a prolonged search Bruce and Pete, his best friend and co-inventor, finally talked a farmer into letting them use his pasture for the launching. I made excuses to keep the younger children in town. So it was only Bruce, Pete, John and I, and the reporter, Mr. Conroy, who trudged out across the serene rough stubble of the field.

We crouched behind a hillock with the control box which connected to the rocket with some two hundred feet of electric cord. Half of it had been purchased by me at the last minute with grocery funds. Five dollars, I felt, was a modest sum to spend to separate us from the explosion by an extra hundred feet.

I grew more and more tense as we approached the crucial moment of blast-off, and then we saw the farmer running toward us wildly waving his hat. What he had to say was brief and final. He had been advised that he'd be responsible for any damage in the vicinity resulting from the blast, and he couldn't take the chance.

My relief was accompanied by an acute ache for the boys. They didn't argue. They accepted the defeat, but it was a bitter one. In a tight voice Bruce said, "I'm sorry we wasted your time, Mr. Conroy."

The reporter, whom I had scarcely noticed until this moment, said, "Don't worry about that." He walked between the boys back to the cars. "You know," he added, "this may have worked out for the best. Firing of rockets by amateurs is pretty risky business."

Precautions

"We've taken every precaution," Bruce was at once defensive.

"Oh, I'm sure you fellows have," Mr. Conroy said easily. "I was thinking of kids who might read about what you've done and then try something on their own in a sloppy fashion."

"That wouldn't be good," Bruce admitted and Pete nodded agreement.

"We'll have to see about getting your rocket fired under proper supervision. I've been out to White Sands for a couple of tests. You'd be surprised at the safety precautions they take."

Both boys were now staring at Mr. Conroy as if he were the oracle at Delphi. In typical teenage fashion they fairly drank up his advice and warnings, which were most acceptable coming as they did from a stranger and not carrying the stigma of parental anxiety.

Mr. Conroy, I decided, was both clever and charming. He was also most solicitous about helping me over the barbed wire fence. Of course, left to my own devices, I probably wouldn't have snagged my best pleated skirt, but I was so grateful to the man I would have forgiven him anything.

Artist Series Concert

Rapport of East, West Revealed in Music

BY KENNETH BYLER

In a world of international strife, it is heartening to find manifestation of international understanding. The event—music of Italy, Germany, France, Sweden, Poland and Spain performed by Japanese artists for an American audience.

Perhaps it is through the arts that international rapport may be achieved. Thursday night, at the second concert of the Lawrence College Community Artist series, Toshiya Eto, violinist, with his sister, Reiko Eto, at the piano, appeared in a program of widely diversified music. To each of the styles the artists showed a keen understanding of the musical and technical demands.

The program opened with "The program opened with warm singing tone and complete mastery of the technical demands of this work, said to have been inspired in a dream by the devil."

Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata followed. This is a tour de force for both the violinist and pianist and is often used as a vehicle for the display of the prowess of virtuosi. Last night's performance, however, was not of this kind. Virtuosity was not lacking, for it is required, but it was used to give meaning to the music. The interplay and balance between the two instruments was exquisitely drawn with a sensitivity that is rarely heard.

A century and some nationalistic characteristics separate Beethoven's "Kreutzer" and Debussy's "G minor Sonata." The melodies, rhythms, and sonorities are different but one thing that is the same, is that they both require the collaboration of two sensitive musicians. Last night's artists were two such musicians and in the Debussy they achieved a wide variety of the colorful sounds in the impressionistic palette.

Vividly Descriptive Following this substantial fare, the final group began with an "Impromptu" by Tor Aulin and ended with the brilliant "Fantasy" by Sarasate on tunes from Bizet's opera, "Carmen." Between the two, another high point was reached in Szymanowski's "La Fontaine d'Arthuse" where the display pieces with ease. It was an exciting evening in which there was no inclination, at least by this reviewer, to look for flaws or differences in conception. It was honest playing with the meaning of the music foremost at all.

A special meeting on the city's special assessment policy for water, sewer and road work will be held at 7 p.m. Nov. 25 by the board of public works, Mayor Mitchell said today.

New London — Mrs. Fred Bernegger, Hortonia, recently was appointed chairman of social affairs of the Green Bay Diocesan council of Catholic Women by Mrs. Charles Konapa, Green Bay, diocesan council.

Mrs. Bernegger served as chairman of social action for the New London deanery. She is third vice president of the diocesan council.

Mrs. Bernegger and Mrs. John Mullarkey, president of the New London deanery, will attend a quarterly meeting of the board of the Green Bay unit.

Meeting on City Pay Plan, Job Classes Set

A representative of the state bureau of personnel will meet with the Appletton council's finance committee at 7:30 p.m.

The same composer's Carmen "Fantasy," Mr. Eto dashed off the light and spectacular display pieces with ease. stunned when told their star had died.

Richmond drove from the hospital, weeping, to break the news to Power's young wife.

The quiet, handsome actor in the role of Solomon was making a dueling scene with George Sanders when he was stricken.

Sanders in the role of Adonijah, Solomon's older brother, was to be killed in the duel.

Power's death was a tragic duplicate of that of his father, Tyrone Power II. His father also was fatally stricken on the set of a picture, "The Miracle Man." He died a few hours later in the arms of his son.

Returned to Stage The 6-foot-2 former marine pilot returned to the stage in 1952 in the family tradition after winning fame and fortune as a movie actor. He returned to Hollywood only for an occasional movie. He maintained a home in Hollywood, but spent a great deal of his time in the eastern United States, Europe and Latin America.

Power once was asked why he was quitting the much more profitable movies for the stage. "You don't always do everything for loot, do you?" he replied.

The dashing hero of many an adventure picture with pistol and rifle, Power conceded: "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Marie Antoinette," "Rose of Washington Square," "Jesse James," "The Rains Came," "Brigham Young," "The Mark of Zorro," "Blood and Sand," "Long Grey Line," "Eddy Duchin Story," "The Sun Also Rises" and "Witness for the Prosecution." On the stage, Power toured in "John Brown's Body" in 1952. He was on Broadway opposite Katharine Cornell in "The Dark is Light Enough" in 1955 and in "Mister Roberts."

This year he made an 11-week tour of cities in the eastern states in George Bernard Shaw's "Back to Meth-

"I couldn't hit a pig in the back with a bass fiddle." He enlisted as a private in the marines in World War II. But after boot camp, he went into officers' training, and took flight training at Corpus Christi, Tex., logged 3,500 flight hours as a marine transport pilot.

After his discharge, Power kept up his commission in the marine reserves. He was promoted from captain to major in 1957.

Born in Cincinnati

Power was one of the top money making stars in the movies in 1933, 1939 and 1940.

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, May 5, 1913, he was the third in a line of actors named Tyrone Power. His great-grandfather was an Irish comedian and his father a Shakespearean actor. He took his first stage part at 7.

Power married French actress Annabella (Suzanne George) Charpentier in 1939. They were divorced Jan. 26, 1948.

A year later, on the day the divorce became final in California, Power married Linda Christian in Rome in a ceremony that movie fans turned into a near riot.

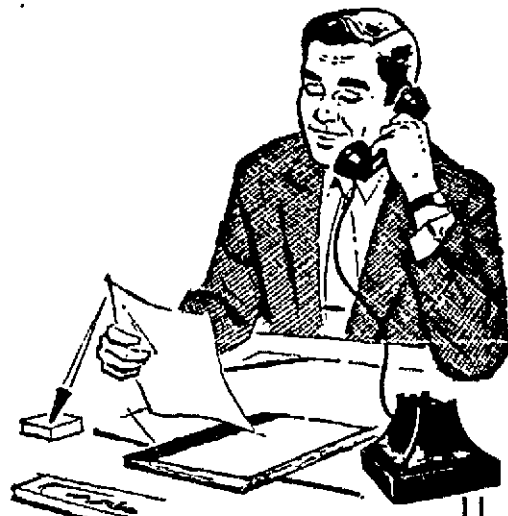

They had two daughters. Miss Christian obtained a divorce in 1955. She received a million dollar settlement. Power married Mrs. Deborah La Minardos, a 26-year-old divorcee, in a ceremony at Tunica, Miss., last May 8.

His movies included such standouts as "Lloyds of London," "In Old Chicago," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Marie Antoinette," "Rose of Washington Square," "Jesse James," "The Rains Came," "Brigham Young," "The Mark of Zorro," "Blood and Sand," "Long Grey Line," "Eddy Duchin Story," "The Sun Also Rises" and "Wit-all-around signal-caller in the league awaits them.

The Chicago Cardinals, with veteran Lamar McHan and rookie M. C. Reynolds alternately losing the QB job, are at Philadelphia. Norm Van Brocklin, former Los Angeles star, can still throw that ball for the Eagles, but he is at a definite disadvantage in this era of running quarterbacks.

Green Bay, able to score only one touchdown in the last two games under the direction of Babe Parilli and Bart Starr, is home to the Los Angeles Rams and the much-improved Billy Wade. Only at Pittsburgh, where the charged-up New York Giants meet the Steelers can a top-quarterbacking battle be expected. And then it will be only if the often-erratic Charley Conerly of the Giants can continue his standout play of the last two weeks.

Couldn't Connect Bobby Layne who will guide the Steelers, couldn't connect for a TD pass for three games after coming to Pittsburgh in a trade, but he has thrown for seven in the past two games.

The Giants (5-2) are tied with Cleveland for the Eastern conference lead and are four-point favorites over the Steelers (3-4).

The Colts (6-1) have a capable replacement for Units in George Shaw, but even with three scoring strikes last week, Shaw was unable to beat the Giants. Baltimore's 24-21 loss tightened the Western race, and the Bears (5-2) have much the better of the schedule the rest of the way.

One Exception

CC Rejects Proposal To Cut Walleye Season

By The Associated Press The conservation commission has rejected a proposal for curtailing the walleye fishing season during the winter north of Highway 64. Several resort owners in northern counties had asked for the curtailment.

Commissioner A. W. Schorger, Madison, who headed a committee studying the plan, said public hearings and the department's Fish Management division opposed the closing proposal. One exception was made, however. It was agreed that Crone lake in Forest County would be closed and the department would conduct research to determine if closing that body of water in the winter would result in a heavier fish population.

No action was taken on a request by Rahr that the commission determine a department policy for opposing applications for diversion of water for agricultural purposes. He called diversion damaging to trout streams and said he felt the department should have a fixed policy to follow when applications to divert are made to the Public Service Commission.

The issue was dropped when a department spokesman pointed out his agency was working with a legislative committee on proposed legislation covering water use, including diversion from public streams.

Resolutions paying tribute to late Al Rice, city editor of the La Crosse Tribune, conservationist and conservation writer, and Bert Barger, Poyette, of the department's game management division, were adopted.

San Diego, Calif.—Charles Smith, 1501, Los Angeles, out-set, Dick Plamann shot a 552 at Twelve Corners.

Shea Says Majors Don't 'Play Square'

Resumes Barrage of Majors; Frick Still Hasn't Seen Him

New York — William A. Shea, who shocked baseball brass almost breathless with his talk of a third major league, resumed his barrage today by accusing the majors of "not playing square with us."

But Commissioner Ford Frick stayed right in the act. "I still don't get it," he said. "If these so-called responsible parties who are to launch a third major league are sincere and mean to operate within the scope of organized baseball, why haven't they come to see me?"

Shea, chairman of the Mayor's Committee to bring another major league team to New York, said his group intended to operate within the framework of organized baseball.

"We never intended to mention anything about an outlaw league," said Shea. "We merely said that if organized baseball refused to accept our package plan once we had it worked out, we'd then work outside baseball."

"But that isn't our intention and never was. Anyway, suppose we were forced to operate an independent league. Who is to say we are the outlaws and organized baseball isn't? Since when does it make you an outlaw to go into competitive business?"

Answer Frick

In answer to Frick, Shea pointed out that at the moment he has nothing concrete to offer. He thinks if he went to Frick, the commissioner would tell him to complete his spadework, then come back. "I am in contact with all those parties I am assured stand prepared to operate a major league franchise throughout the country," Shea said. "When we have the package assembled and with bona fide guarantees attached, we'll go to the commissioner and ask him how we go about coming into the baseball picture as a third major league."

Shea declined to name the cities he was doing business with, but there are several, including Houston, Tex., and Minneapolis-St. Paul along with Toronto, Canada, which are straining at the bit for a major league franchise.

Anthony Wins Unanimous Decision Over 'Sonny' Ray

New York — A bright new day dawned for Tony Anthony, fighter by trade and jazz buff by avocation.

Manager Ernie Braca turned his punching protegee loose into the wide wonderful world of jazz as a reward for hopping "Sonny" Ray into defeat at Madison Square garden Friday night. A rousing finish in the last three rounds earned the top-ranking light heavyweight contender the unanimous 10-round verdict and his seventh straight victory.

Not Ready Anthony, a sleek 177-pounder, didn't look ready for Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson Friday night. But he turned in a workmanlike performance in disposing of Ray, a dangerous 172-pounder with a sneak right hand wallop.

Ray, 22, gave the 4-1 favorite New Yorker a rugged evening until the eighth round. In the eighth, Anthony caught Ray with a jarring left hook to the jaw and then turned loose a barrage to stagger his rival.

Tony couldn't floor the Chicago gamester but he dealt his rival a sound pasting the rest of the way to turn a close, lively fight into a solid victory. The scorecards showed: Referee Harry Kessler, 6-3-1, Judge Joe Agnello, 7-3, Judge Nick Gamboli, 5-4-1, and A.P. 7-3.

The defeat snapped Ray's win streak at nine.

George Bayer Shoots Phenomenal 64 for 2-Stroke Lead at Havana

Havana — Big George Bayer is not satisfied at being acclaimed the longest hitter of the ball golf ever has known. He wants to be a champion.

"Long drives in themselves do not pay off," the towering former University of Washington tackle said today as he prepared to defend his 2-stroke lead in the $45,000 Havana International tournament.

"The money comes from scores and I want to become the complete golfer."

(Bayer played an exhibition round at Appleton Battle des Morts this past summer.)

The score paid off for the 6-5, 240-pound athlete Friday. He fired a 6-under-par 64 which included a double eagle to forge to the front of 43 hand-picked professionals in this Caribbean invitation tournament at the Villa Real Golf not made on one of the easy club wide open courses which Bayer had a 36-hole score mark part of the tour.

Packers May Use Spread Against LA

"It's just that he's got to get experience and meanness or cockiness or whatever - you want to call it."

The Packer continued, "He's got all the equipment. You didn't see Tobin Rote or Bobby Layne or Norm Van Brocklin or any of those guys setting the league on fire in the first few years. It usually takes four or five years to catch on as a quarterback."

"You remember when Rote was our quarterback. Well, Rote was—how should I say it—half horse's neck. I mean he was mean. He'd fire everybody up in the huddle, Bart's not that way. He's too nice a guy."

The 24-year-old Starr is in his third season with Green Bay. Parilli is in his second tour with the Packers, but he seems to brook and lack confidence in himself.

Have Won 4

The Packers have won four games in the last two seasons and each time Parilli was the quarterback. But after each good performance he seems to come up with two or three bad games.

"I wish I could figure him out," a teammate said, "He got going in the fourth quarter in Washington and then tore Philadelphia apart. We figured maybe the 'Babe' is going now. But then over at Baltimore he couldn't do a thing right." Parilli will start Sunday.

Francis has played little this year, the usual fate of the rookie, but he may see more action.

"We're going to use our young fellows more," said McLean. "We've got to find out what they can do."

Francis can run and is learning to pass. Rookie fullback Jim Taylor may also see more action because Howie Ferguson is out with an injury. Taylor ran and blocked well against the Bears last Sunday.

300,000 Deer Hunters Seek Game Today

Some Snow May Reach Northern Area Sunday

Milwaukee—(P)—Wisconsin's most liberal deer season in many years opened at sunrise today and advance estimates placed 300,000 hunters in the field in quest of about 500,000 deer.

The shooting began at 6:19 a. m. for gun hunters.

The weather forecast called for temperatures in the 40s and scattered showers in the north and readings in the 60s and heavier precipitation in southern sections. Some snow may reach the north by Sunday night.

16 Days

In prospect for the hunters are 16 days of shooting in areas north of Highway 8, running from Marinette county on the east to St. Croix Falls on the west. In 66 of the state's 71 counties there will be nine days of hunting.

The prize is one buck with antlers three inches or more in length for each hunter, plus one deer of any sex for camp meat purposes for each four hunters. Camp meat deer can be shot only under a special permit.

J. R. Smith, of the state Conservation department, said the largest concentration of deer was in the northwest woods. The hunting pressure is less there than in other sections of the state, so shooting should be good for hunters ambitious enough to face the rough country.

The department declined to estimate the size of the deer herd, but the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service furnished the half million figure.

UW Senior Will Get Williamson Award For Sportsmanship

Madison—(P)—The Madison Chamber of Commerce, which annually sponsors a football banquet for the University of Wisconsin grid squad, said Friday it will give a new award this year.

It will be known as the Ivan B. Williamson award, named for the Wisconsin athletic director. The winner will be announced at the banquet Nov. 25.

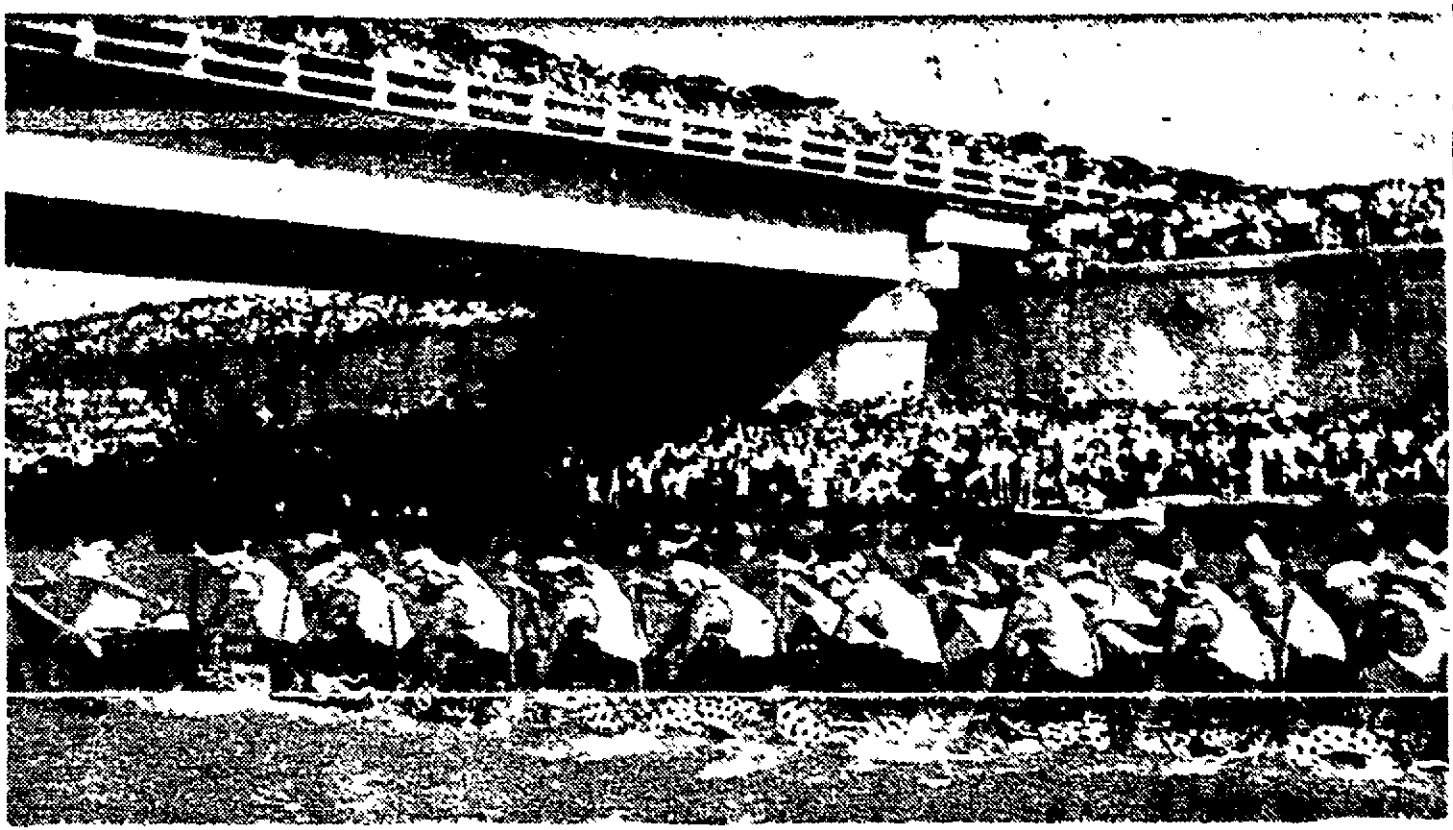

The award will be given a graduating senior selected by the varsity coaching staff on the basis of highest degree of sportsmanship.

Coach Milt Bruhn will announce at the event the new captain and the most valuable player of the 1958 season.

MSU Retains Team Crown

'Deacon' Jones Captures Big 10 Harrier Title

Chicago — (P) — Charles "Deacon" Jones, of Iowa, won the individual title and Michigan State retained its team crown in the annual Big Ten cross-country meet Friday.

Jones, lagging the first two miles, finished strong to win by about 10 yards over Crawford Kennedy of Michigan State. Jones was timed in 20:18:00 for the 4-mile course in Washington park.

Score 43 Points

Michigan State's team total was 43 points. The Spartans captured second, eighth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth places.

Jones overhauled Kennedy in the last 100 yards and simply ran the Spartan jogger into the ground. Minnesota's Buddy Edelen failed to defend the title he won last year. He has an infected leg. Iowa finished second with 59 points, followed by Indiana, 64, Illinois, 77, and Minnesota, 103. Wisconsin and Northwestern were entered but lacked full teams.

Hogan, Snead International Golf Meet Favorites

Mexico City — (P) — With the opening date less than a week away, the U. S. team of Ben Hogan and Sammy Snead is favored to win the sixth International Golf championship and Canada cup matches.

Runner-up in pre-tournament betting is the Japanese team of Torikichi Nakamura and Kolchi Ono, which won in Tokyo last year, upsetting Snead and Jimmy Demaret.

The 4-day matches begin Thursday. Sixty-four champions from 32 countries are competing.

John Kerr Leads Nats To Big Victory Over Pistons; Hawks Win

By The Associated Press

Thanks to lanky John Kerr the Syracuse Nats Friday night stayed hot on the heels of the New York Knicks in the National Basketball association.

The former Big Ten star with Illinois made three decisive baskets in the last quarter that helped the Nats survive a furious rally by the Detroit Pistons. Altogether, the 6-9 Kerr slipped in 30 points on 13 field goals and 4 free throws as the Nats won, 111-109.

The victory kept the Nats only half a game behind the Knicks. Conversely the defeat, dropped the Pistons 11 games behind the St. Louis Hawks in the Western division. The Hawks, sparked by Bob Pettit's 31 points, beat Philadelphia, 110-100, in Friday night's other NBA game.

Cards Wallop Japan All-Stars, 9 to 2

Tokyo — (P) — The St. Louis Cardinals, nearing the end of their 16-game exhibition tour, ripped off 16 hits today, including solo homers by Stan Musial and Don Blasingame, to wallop the Japan All-Stars, 9-2.

Blasingame also singled and tripled in five times at bat. Third sacker Ken Boyer went 4-for-5 with three singles and a double.

"If they can't beat me, then they're not ready," he said.

2 Auburn Tackles Are Signed for Blue-Gray Game

Montgomery, Ala. — (P) — Two Auburn tackles were among four linemen and a quarterback signed Thursday for the South squad in the annual Blue-Gray All-Star football game here Dec. 27.

Boosting the Rebel team to seven players so far are Auburn tackles Cleve Wester and Jim Jeffery. Two linemen and a backfield ace were picked from Vanderbilt. They are guard Bill Grover, center Ben Donnell, and quarterback Boyce Smith.

No players for the North squad have been announced.

Blaik Won't Play AF '11' In Denver

Suggests Chicago's Soldier Field as Best Game Site

Colorado Springs, Colo. — (P) — The Army and the Air Force academies are one mile apart on the scheduling of future football games.

That's the approximate difference in elevation of the two service academies. Because of that difference, the West Pointers don't want to meet the Air Force on the gridiron anywhere in Colorado. The thin air here would give the Air Force the advantage, says Army's Earl "Red" Blaik.

Coach Blaik now has suggested Chicago's 100,000-seat Soldier field as the permanent site for the grid rivalry.

Maj. Gen. James E. Briggs, Air Force academy superintendent, said the Falcons are willing to meet Army anywhere where the Army's choosing on alternate years.

"But we have insisted and we will continue to insist that a return game in any such series be played out here, where our Cadets and the people of Colorado can see it in person," he added.

The teams are scheduled to meet for the first time next year at West Point, N. Y. The rivalry could end with that game unless the academies agree on a playing site.

575 Series Tops Wega Kegle Loop

Weyauwega—Porter Hutchinson cracked a 575 to take honors in the Businessmen's bowling league at Radtke's Recreation alleys. He was a pin better than Cliff Grossman. Bob Hitchcock rolled the only honor game, a 230-line.

The victory kept the Nats only half a game behind the Knicks. Conversely the defeat, dropped the Pistons 11 games behind the St. Louis Hawks in the Western division. The Hawks, sparked by Bob Pettit's 31 points, beat Philadelphia, 110-100, in Friday night's other NBA game.

Many Promising Young Actors in Hollywood

Oldtimers Better Look to Laurels, Energetic Crop Ready to Take Over

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

Hollywood—(P)—It's an old axiom that for every star on top there are a hundred young actors fighting to take his place.

That's truer than ever today, with rewards for a movie star greater than ever. The average age of Hollywood's top 12 stars is 47. So far, they have shown amazing staying power. Here is a richly promising silver dozen, who may some day reach the top:

Pat Boone was voted the No. 2 box office draw after only two pictures. That Pat Boone was based largely on his teenage appeal in this country. If he can capture a wider audience here and overseas, he could inherit the mantle once worn by Bing Crosby.

Here To Stay

Elvis Presley is with us to stay, like him or not. He'll have a big splash after his return from the army. If he handles himself well, he could be a solid threat to Frank Sinatra.

Paul Newman is the best young dramatic star to come along since Marlon Brando and James Dean. He lacks their animal magnetism but may prove a better actor.

James Garner has established himself as a solid personality as TV's Maverick and could do the same in films. He's the likeliest successor to Clark Gable.

Expert at Comedy

Tony Randall is an expert in light comedy akin to Cary Grant. Like Grant, he can also play dramatic roles.

Don Murray has proven he can play comedy ("Bus Stop") and outdoor epics ("These Thousand Hills"). He seems the Gary Cooper type, and he's a solid actor, too ("A Matful of Rain").

Tony Perkins is tall, shy and an excellent actor, like James Stewart. His future is as promising as any young star today.

Tab Hunter has developed slowly but is blossoming into an all-round performer. He has a solid following with the teenagers, which doesn't hurt him. With more seasoning, he could reach the top.

John Gavin has had only one big vehicle, "A Time to Love."

He combined 3-lines for a 588 series.

Clark's team leads the league two games ahead of the Hutchinson team.

The top series in the league was a 588 by Jim Smits. Werner Lietz had 570 and Dick Loehning 562. Joe Pavletzke drilled a 228 game.

Millwrights and Bookstock share first place with 16-11 records in a tight league race. Personnel keggers are a half game out, Electricians and Power House are two games away and Office No. 2 has 13-14 for sixth place.

In the Commercial league at the Menasha Recreation alleys Karl Berndt had a 244 line and 577 total. Badger Highways and Menasha Recreation are tied for first place with 22-11 while Marv's Tap is two and a half games behind and Florence Cafe and Blue Ribbon Bar are three games out.

Activities in men's leagues was at a minimum Friday night with many postponing kegling in favor of deer hunting.

Lucille Ball Drops Lucy Role For 'K.O. Kitty'

Slapstick Will be Gone Monday night On Desilu Playhouse

Hollywood — (P) — Lucille Ball makes her first departure from Lucy Ricardo in more than five years when she plays "K. O. Kitty" Monday night. But she doesn't plan to make it a habit.

On Desilu Playhouse she'll be a girl Lucille Ball who inherits a boxer (Aldo Ray) from an uncle. She describes the role thusly: "I play Lucy with the stops out. This is Lucy with the stops in."

Hollywood — (P) — Lucille Ball makes her first departure from Lucy Ricardo in more than five years when she plays "K. O. Kitty" Monday night. But she doesn't plan to make it a habit.

On Desilu Playhouse she'll be a girl Lucille Ball who inherits a boxer (Aldo Ray) from an uncle. She describes the role thusly: "I play Lucy with the stops out. This is Lucy with the stops in."

The story actually is an elaboration of a sequence which was once planned for the "I Love Lucy" series. When it was transformed for the hour-long anthology show, it still had some Lucy-like slapstick. She ordered it excised.

Most of Lucille's film career was devoted to musicals and dramas. I asked her if she would be seeking more departures from Lucy. "Perhaps if I can find good scripts," she said. "But I'm not eager to. I like playing Lucy."

Both the Eddie Fisher and George Gobel shows are undergoing a change of producers, further evidence that the Tuesday nighters are in trouble. Despite an impressive lineup of guest stars, both shows have had disappointing ratings. It's a shame. I'd hate to see Tuesday night given over entirely to the cowpokes.

If Eddie is worried about the show, he doesn't show it. I watched him glide happily through a rehearsal, pausing to take a phone call from "Mrs. Todd."

Bright Future

Russ Tamblyn was another slow starter, and he went into the army when his career was getting up steam. But he'll be back, and his future is bright as an extremely talented performer.

Sal Mineo could well threaten the Tony Curtis stronghold. The youngster is also dark, intense and admired by the younger set.

Ricky Nelson has yet to prove himself in films, but there can be no doubt that he will be a top attraction. Reason: The kids are wild for him, and they buy the most theater tickets nowadays.

And there are lots more: John Saxon, Pat Wayne, Gary Crosby, Brad Dillman, Hugh O'Brian, Bob Evans, Harry Guardino, George Peppard, Dean Stockwell. They all want a crack at the golden dozen, and some may get it.

Will Hutchins, the sugarfoot lad, is the latest of the gun-slingers to stage a revolt. He blasted his employers the other day with a tirade that on-lookers said was a plop. Will Garner be next?

Isn't it ironic that the two most widely acclaimed shows of the new season were turned in by a couple of old pros — Fred Astaire and Bing Crosby? They have been the highlights thus far of an otherwise lackluster season.

If Twentieth Century can maintain the caliber of its Knute Rockne show, it should be a fascinating series. The 30-year-old footage of the Notre Dame grid great held more interest than most of the up-to-date shows this week.

Wayne Long Hits 278 Line With 9 Strikes

Neenah — Wayne Long put together nine strikes in a row in his third game in the Bergstrom Men's league at the Lakewood Lanes Friday night, and wound up with a 278 line.

He opened with a 134 game, climbed to 160 and then found the strike groove. On his tenth throw he dropped nine pins, spared and then picked off nine again for his 278 line and 572 total.

The top series in the league was a 588 by Jim Smits. Werner Lietz had 570 and Dick Loehning 562. Joe Pavletzke drilled a 228 game.

County Records 6 Crashes as Deer Season Opens

Oshkosh — The northward exodus of deer hunters resulted in several of the six accidents in Winnebago county Friday and early today, most of which were along Highway 41 west and south of Oshkosh.

Three cars were damaged in one of the accidents at 3 p.m. Friday on Highway 41 just west of here. A car driven by Philipp J. Vogt, 23, 1743 N. Morrison street, Appleton, failed to stop in time and struck the rear end of a car driven by Felix G. Wilke, 50, Milwaukee, pushing it forward into the rear of a car driven by Roy J. Zimmerman, 47, route 1, Iola.

All three cars were headed north and Wilke and Zimmerman had stopped for traffic, county police said.

The other accidents did not involve Fox Cities area drivers.

Work of K-C Purchasing Group Told

Neenah — Over $95 million a year is spent by Kimberly-Clark corporation's purchasing department. The story of this department is told in the company's employee magazine, "Cooperation."

The department, which secures everything from a giant paper machine to a 1-inch paper clip for Kimberly-Clark's plants and offices, issues over 77,000 orders a year to some 9,000 vendors. It also processes more than 120,000 invoices a year, the article points out. Coal purchases approximate 575,000 tons a year. If this coal was loaded in 70-ton railroad cars, it would require 8,215 cars stretched a distance of 90 miles.

The department also must work with other departments when a new mill is built. The necessity of expediting equipment and investigating prices for savings that may be as much as $60,000 on a major item as little as 4 cents on a single container are part of the department's duties, the article explains.

Size of 3 States

City of 122,000 Needed to House All Kimberly-Clark Mills, Employees

Neenah — A city of about 122,000 would make up a mythical "Kimberly-Clark, USA" if Kimberly-Clark corporation were to move all its plants, offices and 17,392 employees and their families into one city.

An article in the current issue of "Cooperation," company employee magazine, asks what would such a city be like and bases its answers on industrial development studies conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Manufacturers' association.

The studies were based on reactions that take place in a community with the creation of new industrial jobs — the number of persons added to the community, the number of other jobs created and the amount of additional retail business that takes place.

This mythical city of about 122,000 would have 10 banks with resources of over $130 million. There would be about 117 churches, 30 elementary schools, eight high schools, 2,000 retail establishments, 27,000 homes, two newspapers, five radio stations, three television stations, 13 hotels, 186 restaurants and even three places specializing in pizza.

There also would be 14 bowling alleys, nine golf courses, nine theaters, 11 funeral homes, plus nine kennels for the community's pets and nine exterminators and fumigators.

Other workers Such a city would support 5,472 persons in retail trades and 4,350 in construction work. There would be 2,438 persons in professional and related services, 2,262 in transportation, communications and public utilities, 870 in business and repair services, 870 also in wholesale trades and public administration, about 696 in finance, insurance and real estate and 348 in entertainment and recreation service.

One of the studies, according to the article, shows that this mythical community would require the produce of about 14 million acres of land. Placing around the community all the woodland acreage owned or controlled by the corporation and its associated companies would add about 9,950,000 acres. This is roughly the equivalent of 17,900 square miles or the entire land area of Massachusetts, Delaware and New Jersey.

"This should give some idea of the total economic impact of Kimberly-Clark upon the economy," the article points out. "Actually, all receipts of the corporation eventually end up in the hands of people, whether it be through wages and salaries, payments of dividends, purchase of raw materials, capital additions or any other expenditures."

English Boy Coming To U. S. for Heart Surgery at Mayo's

Southampton, England — An English mother and father headed to the United States today with their ailing son for expensive heart surgery rather than go to Russia where the operation would be free.

The boy, 5-year-old Stephen Smith, sailed a board the Queen Elizabeth with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Smith. The ship is expected to dock Wednesday in New York.

Surgeons at Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., will attempt to close a hole in the heart of the smiling, happy child early in December.

Stephen's father is a $25.20 a week railway worker. About $8,400 for the passages, the hospital bill and doctors' fees was raised with the help of the London Daily Mirror.

American surgeons are reported well ahead of Britons in operations of this kind.

A Russian journalist heard of the fund campaign and arranged for a free trip to and from Moscow for the Smith family and for a free operation for Stephen.

Smith declined the offer in order to take the boy to the United States.

Faces Don Bosco '5' Tonight; Notre Dame Sunday; Only 4 Seniors on Traveling Club

Menasha — One of the youngest St. Mary teams in recent basketball history will represent the school in this weekend's cage openers at Milwaukee.

Coach Ralph McClone's Zepphys meet Don Bosco at 7:30 tonight and Notre Dame at 2 p.m. Sunday. Both games are slated for the Don Bosco gym.

The St. Mary traveling squad includes only four seniors, four juniors and three sophomores. The starters are expected to be Pete Vanderhyden and Jim Rueckl, juniors, at guards; Jim Bayer, a senior, at center, and Mike DuFrane, a senior, at one forward and either Mike Herliche, a junior, or Jerry Laemmrich, a sophomore at the other.

Scores 20 Points

Rueckl started the season on the jayvees a year ago but scored 20 points against the Notre Dame reserves in the first game and was elevated to the varsity. He broke into the starting lineup at mid-season and had a couple of 20-plus games after that.

Vanderhyden was the top scorer on the junior varsity. Bayer saw enough varsity action to win a letter and scored 76 points. DuFrane came out for basketball in mid-season and saw both varsity and jayvee duty. Herliche was a regular on the unbeaten junior varsity squad and Laemmrich wasn't out for basketball as a freshman. He was one of the leading scorers on the St. Mary Grade school team which finished second to unbeaten Kimberly Holy Name in the Diocesan tournament two winters ago.

3 Lettermen

Other squad members are Bill Becker and Mike Kiefer, sophomores, lettermen Ed Lotzer and Gary Batley, who recently reported to the squad and Norb Kozlowski, up from the jayvees.

Notre Dame will go into the test with a game under its belt since it was slated to visit Wisconsin Rapids Assumption last night. The Milwaukee school will be without the services of Jim Czerninski, one of its three lettermen, who suffered a broken jaw during the football season.

The Menashians defeated Notre Dame, 68-55, in last year's meeting at the Zephyr gym. Pat Below, who has graduated, scored 20 points and Dave Miller, another senior, had 12. Norm Brown, still out of action with a football injury, made nine. Zdarstek scored 21 for the Redwings.

The Zephyr jayvees scored 22 points in the second quarter on their way to a 49-41 win over the Notre Dame reserves.

Cadets in Cage Debut Against Wausau Quintet

Green Bay — St. Mary will not be the only Fox Valley Catholic conference basketball team which opens its schedule tonight.

Green Bay Premontré, with whom it shared the championship last year, kicks off its schedule at home against Wausau Newman. Coach Ted Fritsch has three returning regulars from a year ago.

They are Gary Kroner, one of the top rebounders in the circuit, Bob Brusky and Jim Cibula. Daryl DeSteffen, a 6-2 junior transfer from Sheboygan North, and Dave Dobesh are the other starters. John Stathas, a letterman, will be out until after Christmas because of a back ailment.

Graduation claimed Ron Bertagnoli, the top scorer, plus Bob Patrickus, Jim Brusky, Paul Schneider and Dave Blahnik. Premontré will play 23 games excluding the tournament.

WIAA Basketball Exams to be Given At Menasha High

Menasha — Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association basketball examinations for area residents interested in officiating will be given at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Menasha High school study hall.

L. A. Wienbergen, high school principal, will conduct the examinations. Those unable to take the exam are to contact the WIAA office at Stevens Point to make arrangements for another test.

6 Games on Tap for Prep Cage Squads

Neenah — The Twin City high school sports scene, devoid of competition since the football season closed two weeks ago, will pick up in tempo with the inauguration of the lengthy basketball schedules.

St. Mary gets a head start by playing two games at Milwaukee this weekend. The Zepphys will then be idle until Nov. 25 when they open home and Fox Valley Catholic conference play against St. Norbert.

Menasha kicks off its schedule Tuesday at home against West De Pere and entertains Manitowoc Friday evening.

The Jays bested the Phantoms but lost by six points to Manty last year.

Neenah will begin its 19-game slate next Friday night at Fond du Lac and travels to Wisconsin Rapids the next evening. The Rockets trimmed both foes last fall.

The Jays and Rockets open league play Nov. 2. Menasha is at Two Rivers and Neenah is home to champion Shawano.

Unofficially, Neenah collected 1,782 yards on the ground and 403 through passing. Its opponents made 829 yards rushing and 466 in the air. Neenah completed over 50 percent of its passes on 41 successes in 79 tries. The Rockets intercepted 10 enemy tosses.

Menasha Macs Plan Monthly Meeting

Menasha — Final plans for the Harlem Magician professional basketball program and a Christmas party for children will be discussed by the Menasha Athletic association at its meeting at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Eagles club-rooms.

The association will sponsor the Magicians and Boston Shamrocks at the Menasha High school gym next Saturday night. The various assignments for that game will be announced.

Haynes, Grider, Wheeler

Menasha — A trio of professional basketball veterans, who combined have over 40 years of service in the business, will be in action when the Harlem Magicians headline a basketball program next Saturday night at the Menasha High school gym.

They are Marques Haynes, ball handling artist, who headlines the troupe, Sam "Boom" Wheeler and Josh Grider.

Wheeler is the real veteran of the group. The 6-4 scoring star and master of comedy played 13 years with the famed Harlem Globetrotters, two seasons with the Kansas City Stars and has been with the Magicians for three years.

Wheeler played his college ball at Philander Smith college at Little Rock, Ark.

Organizes Magicians

Haynes, who gained his fame by sleight of hand tricks handling the basketball, played eight years with the Globetrotters and has been with the Magicians in their six years of existence. In fact he organized the team with "Goose" Tatum, when they broke away from the original Trotters. Haynes played college ball at Langston university at Langston, Okla.

Grider, a 6-3 cager, was with the Globetrotters for six seasons before going with the Magicians three years ago. His college experience was gained at Tennessee State University at Nashville, Tenn. He holds a masters degree.

Hillard Injured

Another basketball veteran, Leon Hillard, who jumped from the high school ranks to the Globetrotters, is out with an injury. Hillard joined the Magicians last year and played here with them on March 29.

Next Saturday's program will be sponsored by the Menasha Athletic association. The Macs will play New Holstein in an Eastern Wisconsin league game at 6:15 and two grade school teams composed of fifth and sixth graders will play between halves.

Neenah High Varsity Posts Fine 6-1-1 Mark

Rocket Gridders Deadlock for 2nd In Mid-East Wheel

Neenah — Neenah's 1958 football team didn't win its third straight Mid-Eastern conference championship or notch its third straight unbeaten season but it still compiled a very impressive record.

Coach Marlon Batterman took a squad which lost some 20 boys through graduation, had to battle a rash of injuries which knocked a couple of boys out for the full season and kept others out of one or two games and still wound up with a 6-1-1 record.

The 5-1-1 mark in conference play was good enough to tie for second place and the Rockets lost to undisputed champion Menasha by a single point.

Score 194 Points

In compiling their fine slate, the Rockets scored 194 points or an average of slightly more than 32 per game. It allowed their opponents 73 or about nine per outing.

Neenah had a high of 53 points against New London and low of six in the Menasha game. High for an opponent was 13 by Kaukauna and Kimberly and the low, Fond du Lac's six. No opponents were blanked.

Unofficially, Neenah collected 1,782 yards on the ground and 403 through passing. Its opponents made 829 yards rushing and 466 in the air. Neenah completed over 50 percent of its passes on 41 successes in 79 tries. The Rockets intercepted 10 enemy tosses.

Scoring by Quarters

The opponents were successful on 36 of 105 pitches and intercepted five Neenah throws, three by Clintonville. Neenah had a 96-63 first down edge on its opponents.

Talk of Taxpayers' Plan Ends Meeting

Child Guidance Center Appropriation Held After Tie Vote; School Letter Received

A city council finance committee meeting ended rather abruptly without a motion for adjournment, Thursday several minutes after a discussion of Appleton Taxpayers association budget recommendations was begun.

Consideration of the recommendations was sought early in the meeting, but the item was put off until other business was out of the way.

Other actions included: recommending a 1959 appropriation for a child guidance center. Center officials seek $8,000 from the city.

Placing on file of a letter from Mrs. Alice E. Davis, of the school board, advising that the board decided to take no action on taxpayers' association suggestions to cut $100,000 from the school budget.

"Although their approach was constructive and courteous, it was hampered by the lack of knowledge of the board's previous deliberations," she said.

Then came consideration of the association's recommendations to the city council.

The alderman who had sought consideration said the association deserved an answer and none had been made.

On Merit Only

Another said the suggestions should not be considered simply because they came from the association, as the committee go over the schedule of incomes. The committee hadn't done so before.

Up and Gone

Another committeeman said building surplus is holding money in escrow for the next year's rate and should not be done.

About this time another member said he was against the school appropriation, but he wouldn't make an issue of it.

Up got one member and started to leave.

Result: No decisions on association suggestions.

60th Anniversary Early Days Difficult but Not Without Humor for Hospital

BY BETTY KILICH Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Times were hard and the weather cold when four young Franciscan sisters trudged the streets of Appleton to a frame house in the old Fourth ward. A chilly wind skittered through the streets and flapped the sisters' robes about them while they searched for their new residence.

It was Nov. 19, 1898, the feast day of St. Elizabeth, when they arrived, opened the front door of what was to become St. Elizabeth hospital, and settled themselves and their belongings in the modest house. Most residents of the young city didn't know

Open House Tours

Behind-the-scenes tours of St. Elizabeth hospital will be offered from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday in observance of the institution's 60th anniversary.

Members of the Women's auxiliary, dressed in nurses uniforms of the 1900 era, will lead tours and serve refreshments.

the sisters had established Appleton's first hospital.

Now the eighth largest employer in the city, according to one survey, the hospital will observe its 60th anniversary next week, beginning with an open house Sunday afternoon and evening.

Sisters Remember

Reminiscences of the earlier days of the institution—now many times larger, more prosperous and endeared to the community—are provided by Sister M. Kostka and Sister M. Clementia. Sister Kostka, a native of Appleton, watched the hospital grow from its birth throes and now is head of the physical therapy department. Sister Clementia has been a surgical nurse there since 1912.

The first years were not easy ones, the sisters recall, since poverty, hardship and often community antagonism were predominant.

After a few days, however, the first patient arrived—brought in early one morning from the country in an open wagon.

"But, doctor," Sister M. Kostka, the surprised superior exclaims, "we have no beds. They've been ordered, but nothing has come."

Hurried preparations were not needed—the first patient had died of exposure before she could be lifted from the wagon.

Turns Away

No beds had been delivered when the second patient arrived, but a makeshift arrangement was contrived to meet the patient's needs.

The third potential patient, Sister Kostka relates, a gentleman from Menasha, never opened the doors of the hospital.

Arriving by streetcar from Neenah, he instructed the conductor to let him off near St. Elizabeth hospital. "Here's your stop," the conductor shouted and pointed out the 8-room frame house.

"But I asked for the hospital," retorted Potential Patient No. 3.

"That is the hospital," replied the conductor.

The man alighted according to instructions, pondered at the door step, turned back and waited for the next streetcar to take him home. He never was seen by the hospital sisters again, Sister Kostka relates.

Came Christmas day and the sisters still lived in poverty, with only meager amounts of food, the sister remembers said she fractured a wrist and from stories told her by Sister M. Clementia, the youngest member of the nun's community.

"I wept all day," the sister remembered. "If only we had had one stick of candy to make it festive. But we had next to nothing—only dry bread without butter."

But that year, as more and more patients asked access to the hospital, Sister Carola decided to go downtown and seek money for support of the institution. During her wanderings on the avenue she fainted and was taken to a drug store and fed a nourishing milk drink.

"What was the matter?" "I must have been hungry," she sighed. The superioress had left her long duty at the hospital to ask for money. She hadn't had the time to stop for food, she said. It was strongly suspected the sisters had no food for themselves—only for the patients—at the time.

The story also is told of young Sister Clothilde, who was given 10 cents to buy meat for the patients. It was a cold day and not yet supper time when she got back so she set the meat under a dish on the hospital steps until it was time to prepare it.

It wasn't too-wise a move, for a neighborhood dog sniffed the delicacy under the dish, managed to retrieve it and the next that was seen of the agile nun was a robed figure galloping through the ravine shouting some rather strong shouts after the canine culprit.

14 Months

The nuns spent 14 months in their house, now remodeled and standing at 110 E. Fremont street, before enough money was collected to build the first permanent building, still a part of the hospital. It was started in 1900 and Sister Kostka, a girl then, remembers singing for the cornerstone laying on June 19 of that year.

Sister Clementia remembers Drs. Sam and Louis Marshall as being particular benefactors of the hospital. When Dr. Louis Marshall discovered Sister Clothilde had no watch with which to take pulses, he bought her one—a watch which she wore and used throughout her life.

At Christmas time, or any other time of the year, one of the doctors would bring baskets of food—meat, grapefruit and oranges—with specific instructions. "These are for the sisters, not for the patients."

Whether those instructions were followed or not is something only the Sister of St. Elizabeth will ever know.

Operate in Homes

In those early days Sister Clementia recalls, only the most primitive operative arrangements could be contrived. Surgical furniture was sparse—a table for the operation and a few tables for instruments. Overhead lights were inadequate, so often sisters had to stand on a stool holding a light to provide adequate illumination.

Quite often operations were performed in patients' homes rather than in the hospital and, for each of these, the sisters received $10. After 11 home operations, they were able to buy an autoclave—a most welcome addition after sterilizing instruments by boiling water on a gas stove for many years, she relates.

Operations were performed at any time of the day or night, she goes on, whenever the patient arrived. Sister Clementia recalls one case in which the patient's train was snow-bound.

The doctors and sister-nurses waited and waited. No patient. The room got colder as the night progressed. The doctor lay on the operating table to nap for a bit. The sisters huddled next to the radiator to keep warm.

When the train finally arrived at 2 a. m. the room was completely frigid and the operating team had to hurry about conjuring up more steam for warmth.

Much other history has been witnessed by the nun—the development of better anesthetics, progress in blood transfusions and more efficient operative techniques—and all, too, in the lifetime of the red-brick hospital.

Two Employees

Two old-time employees also recall times gone by. Miss Anna Verkuilen, a 35-year employee, has been with the hospital since she got her first job there as a pig-tailed teenager. As the lay person who's been on the staff longer than anyone else, she recalls the time when a 12-hour day was common and when light bulbs were focused in bassinets to create incubators.

Changes in the obstetrics department—many of which will be exhibited during the open house—were watched by her while Anthony Rubsam, a 28-year employee, observed changes in other parts of the house.

Rubsam, who started as a general repairman, now does a good deal of the carpentry and cabinet making, providing sisters and employees with modern, well-made equipment.

"If there was a problem, we just had to settle it," he recalls of his first years of employment.

First Day

And his first day at the hospital—as a young 22-year-old—is one he claims he'll never forget. In fact, he almost severed his relations with the sisters and, he says, would never have missed the place.

The youth, not married and unacquainted with the sounds of babyhood, was sent to the OB department to do some work. His arrival caused a few infants to wail, but when every infant member of the department, and there must have been about 25 of them, he contends, began to cry and squirm, he was ready to throw in his paint brush and get another job. He didn't.

The anecdotes surrounding Sister Elizabeth hospital are many—probably as many as there are patients, nuns and employees—but they all prove one point—the hospital grows as the community grows, adapts itself to modern techniques as the medical staff adapts, is as beset with human foibles as any institution is beset and yet can view the entire situation with a sense of humor, charity, faith and love.

BIDDLE FOREIGN CARS

Walter Biddle, always a staunch supporter of foreign and sports cars, three years ago decided to open a foreign and sports car agency in Fond du Lac in addition to handling the Pontiac line of cars. The foreign car market was in its infancy, but Biddle could see a tremendous market for the future, and acquired the finest lines of foreign and sports cars MGA, Morris Minor, Renault, Austin-Healy, Jaguar, and Triumph, tops in their respective countries and leaders in this country. Latest addition to the line is the Saab, from Sweden.

The buying public, according to Biddle, because of crowded city traffic, economy, two car families and suburban living, began to take to foreign cars. They liked the ease of handling, the economy of gas and repairs.

Locate at Center

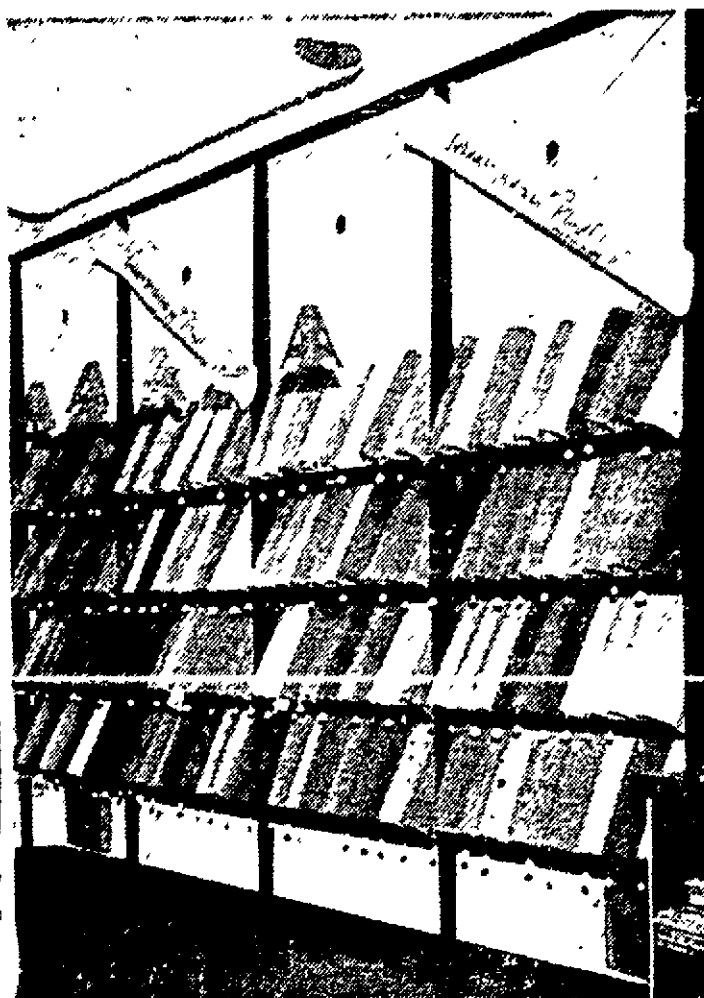

Biddle Foreign Cars is located at Valley Fair Shopping Center in Appleton now, where parking is easy with room for over 2,000 cars. When you visit the firm, you can see Biddle's beautiful showroom and a fine selection of sports and foreign cars as well as its large USED Car lot.

Information about the cars is always available, and many a looker turns out to be a buyer after he gets the facts and takes a demonstration ride.

A good example, says the firm, is Philip A. LaBorde, 2917 E. Wisconsin road, Appleton, who appears in one of the pictures above with his son. The two are looking over the French Renault, and yes, Phil is now a happy owner.

New Sales Manager

September 1 arrived, and Biddle needed a sales manager for Appleton so they selected Rolfe Donovan, highly recommended by a manufacturer in the auto field formerly associated with a large Pleasing to the Eyes and thrilling to the mind is the complete selection of Acrilan carpets displayed at The Carpet Shop, 506 W. College Ave., Appleton. In this Acrilan corner, pictured above, the customer has full view and feel of all the colors and textures of the newest man-made carpet, which has received such widespread acceptance because of its almost-undamagable fibers.

Acrilan carpet bounces back from the heaviest pressure—resists matting as no other carpet can, says the Carpet Shop. Acrilan carpet is amazingly easy to clean. Stains tend to stay on the surface, so does soil.

Stubborn household stains come out quickly, cleanly, reports the firm, and dirt picks up easily with just a once-over-lightly vacuuming. Moths won't attack Acrilan carpet; it doesn't mildew or cause allergic reactions.

Due to its staunch, sturdy-wear qualities, Acrilan carpet retains its rich, luxury look long after other carpets have seen their day, informs The Carpet Shop.

Few Makers

At present there are only a few manufacturers authorized to produce Acrilan carpet.

These are the only Hearing Glasses guaranteed by Good Housekeeping, the firm declared.

Free Audiometric hearing tests in the home or at the firm's office are offered by Mahony Dahlberg Hearing service, where all makes of hearing aids are serviced and batteries for all makes are stocked.

Office Hours
Office hours of the firm are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays. Evening appointments may be arranged by phoning 4-0901.

Mahony Dahlberg also announced a new service, offered for the first time. Readers may now rent a hearing aid for any period of time they desire, at very reasonable cost.

The firm said Friday that hearing aids constituted a perfect gift for Christmas giving, and suggested readers considering such a gift contact them as early as possible to facilitate arrangements.

Space-planned bodies which provide a totally new experience in passenger comfort in both front and back seats are presented by Mercury in its entirely new cars for 1959. In its 20th anniversary models, Mercury offers a combination of advanced design, mechanical excellence, performance, and economy. Designed exclusively for the medium-price field, the new Mercury has 15 models in four series, including the only two-door station wagon in the medium-price range. Pictured is the Park Lane four-door Cruiser. The new cars went on display yesterday at Al Rudolf Motors, 300 N. Superior street; Mercury, Lincoln, Edsel and English Ford dealership.

The joint efforts of the engineers and stylists have created in the 1959 Mercury a totally new experience in front seat travel.

To achieve this industry "first", Mercury engineers: Lowered the hood two and a-half inches for better road vision.

Moved the instrument panel far forward, providing six inches more knee room and ten inches more distance from the seat back.

Designed compound-curved windshield more than 60 per cent larger than previous models for greater vision.

The sharp reduction in space taken up by the transmission tunnel hump and tunnel allows greatly increased leg room for the passenger in the middle of the front seat and permits improved cushioning.

A new vertical windshield post gives 24 inches more clearance for the knees getting in and out of the car. Entrance room is increased further by widening front doors four inches on four-door models and nearly 24 inches on two-door models.

New Windshield
The large new compound windshield — almost 1,900 square inches — makes it easier to see traffic lights previously hidden. Total glass area throughout the entire car is one-third greater than previous models.

LOOK DRUG STORES FILL THEIR 500,000th PRESCRIPTION MONDAY

A milestone in service was achieved by Look Drug stores, Kaukauna, Monday, when prescription number 500,000 was filled at their No. 1 store, 112 E. Second street, Kaukauna.

The mark is a tribute both to citizens of Kaukauna and surrounding area and to the store itself as only the faith and trust of citizens and the careful and accurate compounding of prescriptions by store pharmacists has made it possible for the one-half million mark to be reached, the firm said.

It was 1911 when Otto A. Look purchased Kaukauna Drug company, 101 E. Second street, from F. M. Charlesworth. Business flourished until 1918 when the store was moved to 218 Main avenue to the north and southside provide more space for adding a music store operation.

In 1922 the store was moved to 106 E. Second street. In 1924 Arthur Look assumed store management after the death of his father and check-out service was inaugurated.

Continued growth of the concern led to the formation of a corporation with Arthur H. Mongin, Jr., president and treasurer, and Eugene F. Lange, manager of Store No. 2, vice president and secretary. Mrs. Arthur C. Look completes the board of directors.

Stock ownership was extended in 1938 to include Gene Lange, Vincent C. Hammar and John H. Scherer, pharmacists. The owners have pledged to continue their policy of top service and invite the public to stop at either of their modern drug stores.

Fire damage in 1944 to the store forced operation in a temporary store at 109 E. Second street while a new building was being erected. A partnership was formed between Art Look and Art Mon- Look purchased Kaukauna Drug company in 1948 and in 1952 the drug company, 101 E. Second street, purchased a northside store from Henry Braunworth. Business flourished until 1953 when the store was moved to 106 E. Second street. In May, 1953, Arthur C. Look passed away unexpectedly and a new partnership was formed between Mrs. Arthur Look and Mongin. In 1954 the store was moved to 106 E. Second street. In May, 1953, Arthur C. # U. S. Has Last Chance To Close Missile Gap

Idea of Maintaining Offensive Power Already Has Been Abandoned

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Paris — These words are written in Paris because this reporter is again on his way to the troubled Middle East. The diplomats here are anxiously arguing about the meaning of Nikita Khrushchev's recent open threat to vulnerable, vital West Berlin.

Alsop

When President Eisenhower took office, the American strategic air command still had the power to strike the first blow, but Soviet nuclear strike ing power was already growing fast, and the Eisenhower administration decided not to make the great effort to maintain the American lead. Hence, SAC lost its true offensive capability rather early. The Dulles doctrine of massive retaliation became massive nonsense not long after it was proclaimed.

In this precariously balanced situation, all the actions of each side are limited by the other side's nuclear deterrent. This effect was clearly visible even in such a strange local conflict as the fight at Quemoy.

On the American side, the president at once tore up all his previous "bigger bang for a buck" directives authorizing our armed forces to use tactical nuclear weapons in almost any kind of local military spot. By the same token, the Soviets clearly held back the Chinese communists, in order to avoid an uncontrollable widening of the war.

Series of Subtractions But what will happen when the balance of the nuclear deterrent changes again, during the period of the missile gap that now lies ahead? In order to answer this question coherently, it is first of all necessary to note that your true nuclear deterrent is what the can overseas air bases by the other side is certainly not going to be deterred by air. SAC's total striking power will planes they count on destroy be composed of short-range B-47 aircraft, which are heavily dependent on the overseas bases. When the overseas bases are neutralized, a very high proportion of the B-47's will simply become unusable.

Subtraction number two will be required because even SAC's long-range bombers, based in the western hemisphere, will not be immune to Soviet intercontinental missiles. In fact, only the relatively small proportion of B-52's and B-58's that are in the air or on 15-minute alert can be counted on for the return blow. These two subtractions, taken together, will thus reduce SAC's dependable retaliatory striking power by somewhere between 70 and 85 percent.

Great Improvements Finally, a third subtraction must be made because of the great and continuous improvements of the Soviet air defense system. In the period that lies ahead, the Soviet war planners cannot only expect their first blow to destroy or neutralize a huge part of SAC's over-all striking power. They can also expect their air defense to destroy or turn back much of what is left over.

Having made this third subtraction, the Soviet war planners will then ask themselves how much damage the American return blow can do. And if the answer to this final question is acceptable, the Kremlin will then consider that it has full freedom to strike the first blow if this seems desirable. Such is the development that has to be guarded against. The prospect raises a whole series of pressing questions, now being debated in the Pentagon's recesses which will be examined in a further report.
